BARTD MARCHES ON—Construction of the Bay Area Rapid Transit District's $3,888,000 terminus station at the corner of Knowles avenue and Junipero Serra Boulevard in Daly City is well underway with completion date scheduled for November 1972. An adjoining multi-level parking garage costing some $5.5 million is pending funding by the federal government. The station is being built in conjunction with improvements along Knowles avenue. A Modest DC Health Clinic Start

By FRANK LaPIERRE

The Gaudalupe Community Clinic is off to a modest start in its efforts to serve the community's poor in the North County.

But the venture is underway — thanks to the efforts of a dedicated group of North Peninsula residents.

The present timetable calls for the clinic to began treating the community's ailing poor people within the next two weeks, a clinic director said Friday.

Temporarily located in cramped quarters at Mary's Help Hospital, the clinic hopes to move one day to larger quarters when funds become available.

Money is the key to the success or failure of the ambitious venture, board chairman Shelley Fernandez was told Wednesday.

Without proper funding the clinic would be nothing more than a hit or miss scheme, several persons attending the board meeting agreed.

While the clinic will be manned hopefuly by qualified volunteer doctors and other help, funds are needed to hire a permanent physician and to pay for needed medical supplies.

The paid physician would guarantee the continuity of medical administration, it was explained.

At the height of an emotional vocal encounter between persons from the community attending the meeting, several Board members and Mary's Help Hospital staff members, a San Francisco consultant explained that "if money is all that is needed, then we simply must get some money."

The consultant, Sanford Treguboff, Friday informed the clinic he had raised $8,000.

Coupled with the $1,000 donated by Mary's Help Hospital the clinic will now be able to "buy time" while applying for federal funds to expand and operate the facility.

At one point in the meeting Miss Fernandez pressed for use of the hospital's entire eighth floor which has been shelled out for future use as a mental health unit.

She said the quarters in the basement of the hospital were not adequate for the purpose the clinic had in mind and asked to use the vacant eighth floor on a temporary basis.

But sister Theresa, administrator of the hospital, emphasized that while the hospital shared the need for the clinic program she could not hand over the hospital's eighth floor. This would not be compatible with future plans for expanding the facility, she explained.

Asked if the County Comprehensive Health Planning and Regional Medical Program was supporting the clinic, executive director of the agency, Ron Marshall, answered that the mere fact he was being allowed to participate in the matter since April was "sort of a vote of confidence."

New D.C. Pet Law July 8th

Daly City's strict new animal ordinance goes into effect on July 8.

After that date persons walking their pets had better be prepared to clean up any mess made by their animal friends.

This means carrying receptacles, such as paper or plastic bags, to carry off any offensive material deposited either on public rights of way or private property by pets.

Every imaginable type of "pet" falls into the scope of the new law, including dogs, cats, birds and "dangerous animals."

Persons found guilty of violating the ordinance three times in one year may be fined up to $500 and ordered to spend 6 months in jail.

First offenders will be let off by a fine of not less than $25 nor more than $500, City Atty. Albert Polonsky explained.

Regardless if the animal is claimed or not by the owner, once it has been picked up the owner will be responsible for paying all fines plus boarding charges.

Attempts to increase dog and cat license fees has been shelved by the Daly City City Council pending information on a breakdown of expenditures by the county's Humane Society.

City Mgr. David Rowe said his offices had requested the information from David Lavinson, of the Humane Society, some three weeks ago.

The city has not received any response from Lavinson as yet, Rowe said.

Rowe said Daly City was presently developing an agreement with San Bruno for sharing an additional humane society worker to police the dog problem in both cities.

The city was prepared to partially underwrite the costs, perhaps $9,000 per year, of sharing the man.

It was hoped the additional manpower would be used during the evening when many pet owners allow their dogs to wander outside alone.

Bruno Jaycee Outcry Over a Carnival Dog

By BOB PETERSON

The San Bruno Junior Chamber of Commerce is upset about a hairless dog.

The Jaycees have become so aroused about the caged animal, who is part of a traveling carnival which has stopped in San Bruno, that they have adopted a resolution expressing concern.

In the resolution, where the dog was tagged as a dalmation, the Jaycees lashed out at the city as well as the Humane Society for allowing such conditions to exist.

The Jaycees said West Coast Shows at Sneath Lane and El Camino Real, also is not providing traffic control, public restrooms or litter cans.

They urged a "public outcry be heard" at next Monday night's city council meeting.

Frank Prisco, president of the Jaycees, said two youths brought the plight of the hairless tattooed dog to their attention.

He said they were upset about it and considered it cruelty to animals.

As to suggested violations of health, fire and safety regulations, Prisco said the Jaycees held a circus about a year ago and were required to set up toilet facilities, fire extinguishers and waste receptacles. He said they saw none of these.

According to Prisco, four of the six members of the group's board of directors met "at an emergency meeting" Sunday and passed the resolution.

The current show, sponsored by the Millbrae-San Bruno Kiwanis, has received a clean bill of health.

William Dresser, state humane officer, said, "All the animals are in good shape." In addition to the caged dog, three pens are occupied by three, four and five legged lambs, a horse with five hooves, several cows, one with five legs and two other dogs, claimed to have elephant skin.

Dresser said the SPCA's only concern is the condition of the animals as it pertains to the necessities of food, water, quarters and exercise. He said these requirements are being met.

"It seems a small cage," Dresser said. "But the dog can turn around. There is nothing cruel about it. He is in good health and gets plenty of food and water."

Dresser said there is no law against tattooing an animal. "I'd rather see that for identification than branding irons or taking a pinchers to an animal's ears," he said.

Rod Mayer of the county health department said the carnival operation is meeting the health requirements. Likewise the city's police and fire departments say there are no violations.

Mayer said there is no stipulation that toilets are required. He said, however, there are facilities available.

Fire Marshal Harper Petersen said, "It's a typical carnival, and the Kiwanis are meeting the same requirements as the Jaycees had to meet for their circus last year."

Mammini Curious, SSF Halts Purchase Order

Curiosity of South San Francisco Councilman Frank Mammini Monday night halted the issuance of a recommended supplemental purchase order for $22,000 to an engineering firm.

Director of Public Works Lou Goss recommended the purchase order be issued to Kirker, Chapman and Associates for additional engineering costs on the South Airport Boulevard project.

Mammini questioned the $22,000 figure because it represents approximately 80 per cent of the firm's original total engineering contract figure of $30,056, and covers only about a dozen itemized functions.

Goss was not at the meeting because he is on vacation. Councilmen put the matter aside until he returns and further explains the recommendation.

Mammini said, "When you issue a purchase order, you give authority to be billed for that amount."

Himself a contractor, Mammini said that ordinarily a contract for engineering services is let on a percentage basis.

"A scale is used that indicates that for so many dollars of construction costs, the engineer gets paid at a certain percentage of those costs," said Mammini.

He said that usually the lower the construction costs the higher the engineer's percentage, and vice versa. Mammini feels that these additional itemized costs of Kirker, Chapman should be added to the estimated total contract costs of $339,313 and that the firm should be paid for this work according to the scale being used in the original contract.

"I want an explanation and justification for it," said Mammini.

Realignment of Wondercolor Lane, topography and property access studies and design were included in the $22,000 additional costs.

Daly City Classroom Vandalized

Vandals tried to burn art work in the middle of a Colma Intermediate School classrom in Daly City, but the fire apparently extinguished itself before flames spread.

Jefferson Elementary School District officials discovered the vandalized, sooty art room.

Daly City firemen said a stack of paintings and other papers had been stacked in a pile about six feet in diameter and set on fire.

The vandals apparently added latex paint which failed to burn.

The authorities said they suspect more than one juvenile.

Entry was made through a window to the north-side classroom.

The vandals at first tried to remove the window neatly, by first chipping away the putty, authorities said. They finally broke the window glass.

Once inside, they opened every can of paint in the room, broke objects, scattered some materials and piled others to burn.

Fire Chief Herb Ritzmann estimated damage to the room and contents at $3000.

Tuolumne Camping Trip

D.C. Father, Son Rescued

Fears for the safety of a Daly City man and his ten year old son believed lost in rugged terrain near Beardsley Lake, Tuolumne County, ended Monday when they were brought out of the area by a sheriff's rescue team.

An intensive search had been under way for Richard Kroncke, of 41 Huntington Avenue, after his wife, Ailene, reported him missing during a camping trip last Friday.

Rescue parties found footprints of the man and his son heading towards Beadrsley Lake Dam, a rugged area ten miles above the small town of Pinecrest.

Teams of men from the nearby town, Forest Service and the Sheriff's Office had scoured the area during daylight hours with negative results.

Heading the search was resident sheriff Elbert Miller.

"You couldn't find a better man to head the search. He knows every inch of that area."

a spokesman for the sheriff's department said this morning.

Kroncke was found limping out of the woods some three miles above Beardsley Lake Dan. He had a broken left ankle, but was in good shape after his three-day ordeal.

The boy was in excellent condition, said hospital authorities at Tuolumne County General Hospital, where the pair was taken.

Kroncke had apparently slipped and fallen, breaking his ankle, during the campout. He was carrying sufficient gear to subsist for a while in the wilderness, a sheriff's deputy said.

"He wasn't lost. He said he knows the area," the sheriff's department spokesman said.

Kroncke walked all but the last mile on his injured leg.

The last mile was just too much for him and he was placed in a litter and carried out.

Hero Lifeguard Honored by Council in South S.F.

J. Thomas Keck, a swimming pool lifeguard, was honored Monday by South San Francisco councilmen for saving the life of a swimmer May 1.

Mayor William Borba read the proclamation commending Keck, then handed it to the young man. In addition, George Coulter, chairman of the city's recreation commission, presented Keck with an accommodation for his quick work.

"Never before have I ever been so aware of life," said Keck in accepting the awards. "When I saw the child gasping for breath, it made me aware of life."

Keck pulled Jim Mullen from the new swimming pool at Orange Memorial Park, "gave first aid and verbal assurance." It was the first rescue at the new pool, which has been open since December 1, 1970.

No Stage or Drama Teacher

Other 'Outlets' for Students?

By WILL E. THOMAS

The principal of Jefferson High School in Daly City is looking for other activities with which to extract the individual talents of stageless, teacherless drama students.

Dr. Bob Bush made that observation last week in discussing a Jefferson student-parent concern over the loss of a classroom stage for insurance reasons and the teacher because she wants more time for herself.

The drama students, supported by some parents, said they need and want a little theatre. And Dr. Bush said he is searching for a teacher.

Trustees of the Jefferson Union High School District have taken the request under advisement. They are just beginning preliminary budget reviews, Chairman Al Teglia told a group of Jefferson students and parents. The availability of funds is not known.

Bush said he was not prepared to make a recommendation.

The future of the drama instruction itself remains uncertain. Mrs. Judy Mongan, an English teacher who has taught drama, is giving up the drama class next year.

Dr. Bush said Mrs. Mongan wanted to reduce some of the load that apparently is taking up too much of her own time.

The stage problem developed two weeks ago, when an insurance company representative visisted the Mission Street, Daly City, school in connection with the renewal of district policies, according to Dr. Bush.

The stage was removed from the room which can accommodate nearly 200 students.

A sit-in was staged briefly by 30 to 50 students who are concerned over the loss of drama facilities.

Nothing was resolved, however.

The stage and the necessary lighting were installed in the room nearly three years ago when Edward Cereghino was principal, Bush said.

The large room was selected, because large numbers of persons could be seated there, not only for drama productions, but for such other activities as the Model Senate and large group instruction as well.

Students and fine arts department faculty members built the stage and district electricians brought in the wiring to a lighting panel. Students did the electrical work then, Bush said.

The insurance company representative apparently was concerned over the fire and personal safety conditions of the three-year-old staging facilities and lighting system.

Many cardboard boxes containing props, curtains and other articles used in drama and related productions were removed.

Bush said the students were

Youth Raps Bruno Mtn. Development

The first official opposition in South San Francisco to the development of San Bruno Mountain came Monday night from a high school youth.

John Floro of 210 Cuesta Drive told the councilmen the mountain shouldn't be developed at all. He said it would despoil the environment. "Don't build more houses," he said. "Improve what we have now."

Floro's comments were patiently listened to by the councilmen, who in turn indicated that their hands were tied. "The only way we can keep it like it is is to buy the land," said Councilman Patrick Ahern.

Floro said he intended to visit all cities vying for the chance to annex the mountain to urge them not to develop, for aesthetic as well as practical reasons.

He cited landslide problems, uprooting of natural fauna, dust from the construction and lack of open space among them.

Serramonte Numbers a Problem

House numbers in the Serramonte section of Daly City have become something of a problem for the city's fire department.

It seems they can't be seen from the street.

And if they can't be seen, the department told the council Monday, how will they know where to stop during an emergency?

There is apparently no problem locating an emergency if smoke and fire is pouring from the building, but other emergency calls are hampered by the fact that the homes were constructed with the numbers on the side—not on the front—of houses.

The council will likely rule that from now on numbers will be placed on the front of new buildings in the city.

Councilman Louis Papan was concerned whether this new ruling would be retroactive.

If it were, hundreds of already-occupied homes would be affected, Papan said.

It was decided to apply the ruling only to newly constructed houses.

Pacifica's Sunday Session

Pacifica's city council held a budget session Sunday and only one presentation was without slide accompaniment.

That one came from the Chamber of Commerce. Manager Tom Sawyer told the council of his plans to form a blue-ribbon committee of chamber and non-chamber members to work on ways to increase Pacifica's economic base and to encourage business in the investment in the coastside community.

His second major plan is a two-year program of organizational improvement with an eye toward accreditation.

Councilman Nick Gust encouraged the chamber manager to make out of town contacts in cultivating interest in Pacifica.

The Fire Department told the council there was a loss of $304,480 in fire damage last year. Councilman Stan Farber said he felt it time to reconsider the report on a combined fire, police and public works department made in 1965. He also asked for an experience report from Foster City.

Public Works Department head Dave Thompson came under the firing line for nearly three hours as he gave information and was asked questions on his varied operations.

Councilman Farber questioned the increase in maintenance of the school district vehicles while the city maintenance figure held the line.

Thompson was asked if it is possible to paint 71 bus stops for the new bus system with only a $300 increase in that allocation.

23 Photographs Sold at Father Duryea Show

A preview of wilderness photographs taken by excommunicated Catholic priest Rev. Robert Duryea attracted several hundred persons in Pacifica Sunday.

"Father Bob," as many of his former parishioners call him, planned the exhibit weeks before he was suspended as pastor of St. Peter's Church in Pacifica when it was learned he had been married for several years and had a five-year-old son, sponsors of the preview said.

His son, Paul, did not accompany his parents to the event.

Father Duryea, who is still unemployed, said he is now thinking about writing a book about his life when he has time to look back.

The showing was sponsored by the women's guild of his former parish. During the showing, 23 photos were sold at $35 each and the money presented to Father Duryea.

Mrs. Lois Acero, in charge of the exhibit, said it was not originally planned to raise money for the ousted priest.

"He insisted that we take the money (from the sale of the photos) but we refused," Mrs. Acero said.

Although he has had many job offers, Father Duryea has been kept busy answering correspondence, Mrs. Acero explained.

The 49-year-old Duryea has been interested in photography for the past 30 years—since he joined the Camera Club at Palo Alto High School.

Most of the wilderness photos were taken on pack trips to the high Sierra and along the California coast.

A release handed out at the affair noted that Father Duryea had attempted to "capture God's good earth on film."

Sipping champagne and chatting with his former parishioners, Father Duryea said he was gratified to see the large turnout.

In a later interview with radio station KSFX-FM he said he would return to the priesthood "in a moment" if he could.

"I want to be a pastor, knowing the conditions are not ideal but wanting to change them," Father Duryea, a priest for 25 years, said.

"People have been saying I'm a radical. I wasn't a radical but I may be becoming that way," he said.

upset because there was no indication that the stage — or the Teacher—will be replaced.

So far, Bush said, he hasn't found another member of the Jefferson faculty with the combined requisites of competency, dedication and interest in drama.

He will continue the search, he assured trustees.

Bush said there are approximately 30 students directly interested in drama. An additional 20 musicians and stagehands also usually are involved in the two to three productions staged by the drama group.

The principal said he supports the student interest in obtaining new facilities. But, he would not predict an outcome.

The students and some parents, including active Jeff worker Mrs. Esther Talavera, said they believed Jefferson should have the same type of little theatre-drama facilities as all the other Daly City-Pacifica high schools.

Bush said there might be other ways for students to get involved until the drama problem can be solved. He mentioned such activities as cultural dances, physical education demonstrations.

"There are many ways one can act out their feelings," said Bush.

Future utilization of the whole fine arts department might be possible, he said, and individual classes or small groups possibly could perform. This would utilize talent campus-wise, he said.

Props or settings probably would not be needed for most of that kind of production, he added.

The possibility of utilizing the television class studios for production of shows that could be shown to students was offered by Bush as another potential involvement vehicle.

That couldn't come for another year, since the school's television instructor, Ed De Martini will be on sabbatical leave next term, said Bush.

No one is certain what will happen to drama at Jeff.

"I don't know whether to be optimistic or not," Bush said.

Good Response to Cleanup Drive in S.S.F.

The first weekend of the South San Francisco clean-up campaign has been termed "an outstanding beginning" by Assistant City Manager Larry Ross.

Ross said that 1200 cars, lining up as early as 7 a.m. were dumping trash for free this past weekend.

He said 2,800 yards of trash was turned in, requiring 14 trips by the scavengers to the Colma dump off Hillside Boulevard.

Free dumping continues each weekend for the rest of the month of June. The residents must haul the refuse to the scavenger company yard at 69 South Linden Avenue.

Identification, or proof of South San Francisco residency is required, said Ross.

Skyline College Money Debate

By JOHN HORGAN

Final plans on how to finance the construction of a $2.4 million campus center building at Skyline College, San Bruno, are currently being considered by the San Mateo Junior College District Board of Trustees.

The board has virtually committed itself to building the new facility.

Last Wednesday night at the College of San Mateo, the trustees determined to come to some decisions about local financing methods for the structure at the earliest possible date.

The methods of local finance (the key to the matter since federal and state monies have been set at totalling almost $1.2 million) must be arrived at soon, according to District Business Manager Matteo Fasanaro, because the sooner the district awards a contract for construction the better it will be for the district.

Fasanaro, in a report to the board on the issue, said the district must award a contract by November of this year if the district is to receive $500,000 in federal money.

Fasanaro outlined for the board these six methods of raising the necessary local funds:

— By levying a two-cent override tax over a three-year period.

— By the sale of the Baldwin Avenue property in downtown San Mateo.

— By the sale of an option on the Baldwin site to Mills Memorial Hospital, San Mateo, for approximately $300,000 in early 1971-72 and by combining this money with about two cents of Community Services Capital Outlay Expansion Program funds for 1971-72 and 1972-73.

— By the sale of the coast college site to the Cowell Foundation or other possible purchasers and by combining the proceeds of the sale with a portion of the Community Services Capital Outlay Tax.

— By allocating two cents of the Community Service Capital override for the entire amount for a three-year period.

— By accumulating a small capital outlay in reserve from the operational budget and combine this with a portion of the Capital Outlay Community Service levy.

The building, to be used in part as a library, cafeteria and multi-media center at the rapidly growing college, will contain 51,906 square feet. It is regarded by district officials as the number one priority in the three-school system.

Trustee Elio Fontana, who will be leaving the board in less than a month, has been a particular advocate of having the structure built. Fontana, who lost his seat on the board to San Mateo Attorney James Tormey, is the only North County representative on the five-member board.

In his report, Fasanaro also noted that, in 1966, the cost of the project was about $26 per sqcare foot. Now, the current estimate is about $46.87 per square foot.

Pacifica's Budget

The Department head replied, "That is called stretching."

Some reduction was shown in custodial services and Farber questioned how utilities could be reduced, if the facilities are receiving the same use.

Rockaway Beach resident Royce Ackerman said he thought there had been some economies in the city and efficiency is beginning to show.

A spark of hope showed through for the long sought after joint custodial services between Laguna Salada School District and the city, when it was acknowledged that the city attorney had decided such a joint venture is legal.

The school district did not have time to get it into this year's budget, but it was to be a topic of discussion.

Questions were asked as to the liability of the contractor on Sharp Park Road for the overflow of the drainage ditch last winter on Ressa Road.

The street was filled level with the sidewalk at the north end as mud oozed through the neighboring yard.

Traffic safety will get a review this coming year, according to Thompson and the city manager will be presenting the council with a signalization program to include Linda Mar Blvd. at the intersections of Peralta, Adobe and De Solo as priorities.

At this point the fire grew hotter as Councilman Farber and Councilman Harlan Minshew began to question the reserve amounts shown by the department.

Farber kept asking why the new budget reflected the amount actually spent, plus the funds left in the budget at the end of the year, plus an additional increase.

Thompson replied he had to budget for contingencies and City Manager Jim Swayne said a tremendous amount of construction will be going on in the town next year.

Irritatedly, Farber replied, "If we can't compare the two budgets what are we doing here on a Sunday?"

At this point, Mayor Grace McCarthy said, "We are here because it was the only day you were available."

Nick Gust said Thompson is still behind in his work, even though he shows a reserve and he would rather have that then the $40,000 deficit shown by P.B.&R. last year.

This exchange took place in the presence of State Senator Arlen Gregorio, who had slipped in while visiting the reception for Robert Dureyea's photos in the library upstairs.

Gregorio said he was impressed with the Sunday session and anticipated he would face many such Sundays soon, in Sacramento.

Provoked by the approach to the budget, Mr. Minshew said, "Everyone of these budgets has a built-in reserve . . . Let's say this is what we spent and then show the reserve."

Rushing to his department's defense, Thompson stated Public Works had maintained a status quo for eight years.

Swayne added, if each department spent their entire budget taxes would have to be raised.

Determinedly, Mr Minshew said he wanted to see an "honest-to-God" budget listing what was spent.

Water Pact With Serra Center OK'd

An amended water agreement between Daly City and the Serra Center in Colma was expected to be approved at the next regular meeting of the Daly City City Council.

The original agreement restricted use of the Serra Center, then owned by Cabot, Cabot and Forbes, to only 25 per cent of the 25 acre parcel located in the Town of Colma.

However the new owner-developer of the property—Commercial Real Estate Service—has requested this limitation be lifted and water service be provided for the entire developing area.

Daly City supplies the commercial-light industrial complex east of the Junipero Serra Freeway with water through an agreement signed on March 3, 1970.

The city noted that no opposition to the request was registered by the adjacent Serramonte Shopping Center in Daly City.

Two Burglary Suspects Held in Daly City

A Daly City policeman on patrol interupted two burglary suspects attempting to haul away 14 television sets from the C & G Appliance Store, 6422 Mission street, Tuesday morning.

Officer John Kirby said he became suspicious of the pair when they were unable to start a truck they had stolen from another appliance store about 3 a.m.

The burglars jumped from the stolen vehicle and fled on foot.

Police said the suspects had drilled a hole through the back wall of the appliance store, entered and carted out the television sets.

Using a truck stolen from nearby Matthews Appliance Company, the pair were about to drive off with the loot when Officer Kirby happened on the scene.

Burglary Try at Cap Foiled

Two Millbrae youths have been booked by San Bruno police on suspicion of burglary of Capuchino High School.

Arrested at 10:30 Sunday night at the school were Darryl E. Fontana, 19, of 1100 Oakwood Drive, and Joel W. Marsall, 18, 1100 Ridgeway Drive.

Police said officers James Potter and Robert Metcalfe, responding to a silent alarm, noticed the door of the business wing of the school open. They found the two suspects running in the hall.

Police Probe Death of Dog

Bits of a sponge, possibly soaked with poison, may have caused the death of a pet dog, according to San Bruno police.

Mrs. Maria Bell, of 415 Redwood Avenue, told police she took the sponge out of her pet's mouth, and a short time later it went into convulsions and died.

Gunman Holds Up Photomat

A man, covering his head with a red, white and yellow knit cap, robbed a San Bruno photomat of $57 at gunpoint on Sunday.

Police said the Pacific Heights Photomat in the Pacific Heights Shopping Center, was robbed at about 5 p.m.

According to police, clerk Cheryl Ann White, 18, was shown a pistol, described as a .45 caliber, told to give the robber the money then to lie on the floor for three minutes.

Police said the suspect, a white male about five-foot-nine and 170 pounds, apparently escaped on foot.

Blaze Makes Sign Stand Out

The "South San Francisco" on the industrial city's Sign Hill stands out more clearly today than it did after a group of El Camino High School students repaired and painted it last week.

The background for the white letters turned to black over the weekend in the season's largest grass fire to date. No homes were threatened.

Summer Job Programs Win Funds

Approximately $88,000 in summer programs for youths from poverty areas around the county was allocated Thursday by the Economic Opportunity Commission.

Programs will range from tutoring pre-school children in East Palo Alto to a Latin Heritage program in Daly City to help Spanish-speaking children.

Among the programs approved were:

A $10,101 program for Daly City that will involve more than 40 tutors teaching elementary school children. Tutors must be at least 14 years old, residents of the target areas and must come from low income families.

A $4452 Pacifica program.

A $2000 recreation program for the Cabrillo school district.

A $1567 agricultural program for Half Moon Bay.

A $3500 program for San Bruno, to which the San Bruno school district is contributing one school and two teachers.

A $5501 program for South San Francisco.

The commission agreed to contribute funds to employ poor students at Skyline College during the summer if the county contributes an additional $60,000 toward the budget for the War on Poverty.

Jail Term for Bookie

James Lincoln Gunter, the bookmaking toy salesman, has been ordered to serve 60 days in County Jail and pay a $300 fine as conditions of three years formal probation after pleading guilty to a charge of bookmaking.

Gunter, 45, of Colma, was granted until June 18 to begin serving his jail term when he appeared before Superior Judge W. Howard Hartley last week for sentencing.

Judge Hartley also revoked Gunter's probation on a previous bookmaking conviction, sentencing him to 60 days in jail, with that term to run concurrently with the new sentence.

Gunter's latest arrest occurred last September 26 when law enforcement officials raided his Broadmoor motel room. He was on probation at that time following conviction of a bookmaking charge after his arrest in August, 1969.

Reunion

The Hilton Inn at San Francisco International Airport will be the setting September 11 for the ten-year reunion of the 1961 graduating class of South San Francisco High School.

S.F. Airport Land Annex Negotiations Authorized

International Airport Manager James K. Carr was authorized June 2 bs the San Francisco Airports Commission, to negotiate with those Peninsula cities which may want to annex portions of the airport property.

The action followed last week's decision by the San Mateo County Local Agency Formation Commission, which ruled that San Bruno has a greater sphere of influence over airport lands, than does Millbrae.

Under consideration for possible annexation to either city, is 180 acres of airport land west of Bayshore Freeway and east of Southern Pacific's railway tracks.

The land is now being developed by the airport as a site for airline industrial structures, and plans have been proposed to link it with Millbrae and San Bruno by extending existing streets.

Residents of Millbrae areas neighboring the property objected to extending their streets. They said they did not want heavy airport traffic funneling through quiet residential streets.

San Bruno has given more favor to the airport's expansion plans, however, and the construction already started in the area, is in the San Bruno end.

During the local LAFCO hearing, airport spokesmen indicated a preference for annexation to San Bruno.

Millbrae City Councilmen said last week, during their regular meeting, that the decision to allow the airport to annex to San Bruno, may be a great blessing to Millbrae.

"I doubt if we could afford to put in $2,000,000 worth of services over there, for expected tax revenues of $45,000 a year," said Mayor James O'Connor.

A Summer Program Site Eyed

Ralph Rutley, the director of Pacifica's Youth Service Bureau, wants to use the former Pedro Point Golf Academy grounds as a site for counseling and entertaining young people this summer.

His proposal has not been presented to YSB directors, but Rutley has approached the St. Peter's Church Council for use of the site.

Rutley reportedly explained to the church council that a new grant from the California Council on Criminal Justice allowed for the hiring of 15 persons who would work on the summer program to provide counseling and entertainment activities.

Such events, Rutley said, are designed to divert young people from delinquency.

The program would include art, music and dancing, according to Rutley's proposal.

Rutley said that YSB last summer provided a rock concert, youth fair and a dance.

Tony Gusrdino, the Pacifica Police Department's juvenile officer, who was not present at the meeting said later that the major events would be held on weekends. Guardino said the program would supplement Recreation Department activities. It would be coordinated by Don Cadwell of Parks, Beaches and Recreation, Guardino and the YSB's coordinator of volunteers, a position yet to be filled, he said.

There would be small group counselling in day and evening hours, Rutley said.

Dick Burton PB&R director, said that he had talked with Rutley about general areas of cooperation and that Recreation supervisor Ginny Silva also had been in contact with Rutley concerning the proposed YSB program and use of the golf academy site.

Burton said his responsibility is to the youth of Pacifica and that he did not necessarily favor a series of rock concerts which might attract other cities' young people.

Millbrae Youths Get Involved

"Youth in government" means more than just one make-believe day per year, Millbrae City Council members proved last week.

Involvement of teenagers in the city's Recreation Commission during the past year has been so successful, they now intend to put youngsters into action on Beautification, and Sister City programs.

Councilmen voted to wipe out the existing 5-member Beautification Commission and said they'd replace it with a new committee including teenagers.

The existing Sister City structure will also be tossed out, they said, and a new one created in its place, with four youngsters and four adults on the new board.

A city council member will serve on each board as chairman, with Harold Purpus the apparent nominee to the beautifucation group, and Arthur Lepore the man most likely to be chosen for sister city work.

Lepore commented that "Sister City programs are almost entirely aimed at youth. It would enhance such a committee to have young people among its members."

He suggested the city consider naming one youngster from each of the four high schools with attendance areas in Millbrae, Capuchino, Mills, Serra and Mercy.

He said consideration should be given to picking students from College of San Mateo and Skyline College as well.

Fellow councilmen suggested he work out his proposals and come back with a plan, and with a list of possible nominations, or at least a system for choosing nominees.

Councilman Purpus, who has been active as the council's link with its Beautification Commission, pointed out that the shift to a committee was being made to allow more flexibility.

He said there is some discussion about the number of people who should be involved on such a group, seven or nine.

John Brucato, chairman of the existing beautification group, advised the council by letter that he and his fellow members support the idea of youth involvement.

The group, he said, unanimously recommended that the present commission be increased by two young people and be appointed by the City Council.

$125 Taken in Holdup at S.S.F. Doughnut Shop

Two juveniles, one disguised with a pillow case, the other using tape, held up a doughnut shop in South San Francisco Saturday night escaping with $125 in cash.

Police said a 16-year-old part-time clerk at the Winchell Doughnut Shop, 2222 Westborough Blvd., was locked in a clothes locker by the robbers at about 10 a.m. One carried what was described as a black rifle.

According to police, the clerk was counting receipts when two youths entered the store. The one carrying the rifle jumped the counter and locked up the clerk, taking a money bag from a counter and another from an open safe.

Police said both suspects were described as being about 17 years old, approximately five-foot-nine and weighing 150 pounds.

One suspect, wearing a blue jacket and blue jeans, had a pillow case over his head with a hole cut out for the right eye.

The second suspect, according to police, had his entire face covered with transparent tape. His left eye was visible, and his right eye covered with white tape.

Police said the pair left by the front door. No vehicles were seen or heard. Shortly after they left, the father of the clerk came to take his daughter home, and found her in the locker, police said.

Brunan Dies, Probe Drugs

An apparent drug death in San Bruno was under investigation today by the San Bruno Police Department and coroner's office.

The coroner's office said the victim, Steven Seeley, 23, of 212 Sylvan Avenue, San Bruno, was found in bed at the home of a friend, Brian Hanson, 425 Milton Avenue, San Bruno. Seeley was dead on arrival at Peninsula Hospital at 11:13 a.m.

Police said no narcotics were found in the home.

The coroner's office said the cause of death was undetermined Saturday but that it appeared to be a drug death.

$4,000 Coin Theft Told

A South San Francisco man has reported the loss of more than $4,000 in the theft of his coin collection.

Police said some one forced his way into the home of Alfred Ziegele, in the Sunshine Gardens section of the city, between 7z;30 a.m. and 11:30 a.m. Wednesday.

Reported missing was a gallon glass jar about two-thirds filled with coins of all denominations and a separate coin collection.

Police said a 12-year-old girl going home from school found bonds and insurance policies that had also been taken from home.

San Bruno Planners Reject Two Projects

A proposed 38-unit apartment-duplex project on old Junipero Serra Boulevard was rejected by the San Bruno Planning Commission Monday.

The planners delayed for further study action on a proposed 175-unit apartment complex behind the Pacific Heights Shopping Center.

They turned down the plans of Millbrae builder Donald K. Brown, who wanted to erect a six-unit apartment house in Lomita Park. The planners said they objected to Brown's plan, which would allow cars to jut out into driveways.

The 38-unit project was presented by Robert Berryman, who proposed to place nine duplexes and two apartment houses, eight-units and 12 units in size, on the west side of old Junipero Serra Boulevard, now re-named Cunningham Way.

The complex would have extended to the freeway ramps near Crystal Springs Road, and would have begun 255 feet south of Jenevein Avenue.

Berryman sought to rezone the site — now half R1 (single family) and half CN (neighborhood-commercial) to PD (planned development). He wanted PD, he said, so he could build the duplexes joined side-by-side. By eliminating the useless five-foot sideyard, more land could be reserved for front and rear-yard setbacks, he said.

The duplexes would have been two stories high with two and three bedrooms. Each duplex would have had three garage spaces; the "owner's" unit would have had two spaces and the "tenant's" unit one.

The 175-unit Evergreen Garden Apartments in Pacific Heights—now zoned for shopping center extension — was presented by Reynold H. Colvin, attorney for Pacific Heights developer Perry Liebman, architect Irving Caster and marketing consultant Philip Breck.

The 6.3-acre site would be occupied by a complex with one and two-bedroom units, 175 covered parking spaces and 88 open parking spaces. It would have an adult recreation center in the middle.

Planners adjourned the hearing until June 21 to get more facts.

S.S.F. Committed to Hotel-Motel Tax

South San Francisco councilmen Monday agreed to commit the city to a 12 per cent payment of hotel-motel taxes to the proposed county convention bureau. The bureau is to be established.

The city presently donates $10,000 out of approximately $120,000 it receives annually from hotel-motel taxes. By contributing 12 per cent, the $10,000 figure will be increased to $14,000.

A revamping of the present County Fair and Convention Bureau was begun because many of the cities in the county felt they were not receiving total benefits from the money they were giving.

Under the new arrangement the county would support the new convention bureau with $100,000 annually, and the cities donate 12 per cent of their annual tax.

Control of these monies would be by the cities through establishment of appropriate committees.

Fred Rapp, of the Holiday Inn in South San Francisco, said the hotel industry in the county is 100 per cent behind the pilot program.

Fire in S.S.F. Termed Arson

THIS IS the interior of the partially constructed addition to the North County courts building in South San Francisco after a disastrous fire before dawn today. Officials called it the work of an arsonist or arsonists. (Post Photo)

Arson was blamed for the blaze that caused an estimated $200,000 damage to the partially constructed addition to the north county courts building in South San Francisco last Wednesday.

The one-story structure was engulfed in flame when firemen reached it shortly after 3:30 a.m. An unidentified person phone in the alarm.

Fire Chief John Marchi said he did not know exactly where the blaze started, but "I definitely believe it is arson."

There was no electricity on in the building at the time, and workmen had not used flammables Tuesday, he said.

"While I cannot put my finger on the exact spot where it started, or on the tell-tale evidence," Marchi said, "in my mind there is no doubt that it is arson."

Flames extended 50 to 60 feet into the air, said.

"You could see the glow in the sky from all over South San Francisco," Marchi said. "It was really, really going."

Forty-eight men, four engines and a truck company responded to the three-alarm fire at 1150 Old Mission Road. Brisbane's fire department stood by at South San Francisco's Central Fire Station.

Marchi said his men did a terrific job in keeping the blaze in the central section of the addition from extending to other portions of the project and to the older courthouse structure no more than 30 feet away.

Marchi said the roof framing had been connected to the older building.

"We had a hell of a job keeping the fire from extending into the old courthouse," the chief said.

Richard W. Lee, assistant county director of building construction and general services, said the contractor, Budd O. Stevenson, estimated the damage at $200,000.

A 85-foot by 100-foot section must be rebuilt from the ground up, Marchi quoted the contractor.

Marchi said he was thankful that high velocity winds, such as those which blew through the North County two days ago, had subsided.

There was no wind to blow sparks and as a result homes behind the burned building were not threatened, he said.

The $1,011,000 project to construct three new North County courtrooms and expand district attorney, probation and other offices was 45 per cent complete, according to Richard W. Lee, the county's assistant director of building construction and general services.

The contractor, Stevenson Pacific Company of Redwood City, started the job last November.

Although at this stage the addition is separated from the older courts building, the two will be joined eventually, Lee said.

The roof had been framed and three-quarters of it sheathed. Wooden studs for interior walls had been installed.

There was little evidence of the damage from the outside today, except for two small places where flame had burned through the exterior sidings.

Lee said much of the completed work, such as concrete and utility undergrounding, would not be affected by the fire.

D.C. Suspect Questioned

A suspect in the rape-robbery of two North County women was today being questioned by police of two cities.

Broadmoor police chief Raymond Savage identified the suspect as Charles A. Trongoni, 21, of 33 Alemany Avenue, Daly City.

Trongoni and Arthur John Moriconi, 20, of San Francisco were arrested last week in connection with the burglary of a Hillsborough home in which a maid was bound and beaten.

Savage said during investigation of the Hillsborough incident a watch allegedly belonging to one of the rape victims — a cook in a North County catholic church — was seen on the wrist of Mrs. Trongoni.

The watch was stolen on the night of March 29 by a masked robber who broke into the church rectory, bound and raped an elderly cook.

A similar incident occurred ten days later when a masked man broke into a Daly City home, tied up the husband and forced him to watch while the intruder raped his wife.

Project Concern

Bike-Walk Set

A Project Concern "Bike Walk" has been planned for June 19.

Daly City schoolteacher Norman MacDonald, co-chairman of the event, said Daly City and Pacifica bike clubs have been urged to participate.

Walkers are also being urged to get out their hiking boots and to spend part of the day on the new route, which includes crossing the Golden Gate Bridge, San Francisco's new bike paths and the trails of Golden Gate Park. Walkers will be challenged to try to complete 23 miles, cyclists 35 miles, MacDonald said.

Program Taped

The Alta Loma Junior High School Spring Concert has been video taped and will be shown over South San Francisco's WTVC Channel 3 cable system at 7 p.m. Wednesday.

Millbrae Church Property Sale to Be Studied by Councilmen

Whether Millbrae should, or even could, buy 24 acres of St. Dunstan's church property which is now vacant but might be used for housing development, will be studied by the city's civic leaders.

City councilmen last week agreed to appoint a committee to probe the question.

Mayor James O'Connor and Councilman Harold Purpus said they had seen a Palo Alto report which indicates it might be cheaper for the taxpayers of Millbrae to buy the property instead of allowing it to be used for single-family homes.

A recent proposal to use the 24 acres as an apartment site, aroused strong neighborhood objections, and council members agree they have no intention of re-zoning the land to allow multi-family use.

Developers say the property is too valuable to allow its development as the single-family homesites for which it is zoned.

Councilman Bernard Esser agreed to the feasibility study reluctantly, saying he cannot foresee any possibility of convincing the citizens of Millbrae that they should get together the $2,000,000 purchase price reportedly being asked by the Archdiocese of San Francisco.

Councilman Purpus said the cost would be half that price if considered as undeveloped land which is zoned for single-family homes, instead of being a possible apartment site.

He said he has seen a report from Palo Alto which indicates that local taxpayers would see a tax increase if 90 to 100 single-family homes were built on the 24 acres.

Single-family homes no longer pay their own way, he said.

"I realize the City of Millbrae can possibly no longer afford single-family homes," countered Esser, "what I wonder is, can they any longer afford us?"

He suggested that tax bills to the average homeowner are reaching the level where people wonder whether they continue to need additional city services and benefits such as parks and open spaces.

If the property is purchased, said Mayor O'Connor, the city's intent would be to hold it as open space, or develop it as a park site, as later determined by the recreation and planning commissions.

He and Purpus said there's been a change in the attitudes of people, which demands retention of open lands, and creation of more parks within a city.

Purpus suggested the property could be developed as a golf course, and become self-liquidating.

Convicted Slayer Is Married

James G. Riddle and Emily Carter, the mother of his young son, were married by Southern District Municipal Court Judge Roy W. Seagraves June 2 while unaware photographers and reporters waited outside the judge's courtroom to cover the event.

Judge Seagraves performed the marriage in his chambers during a recess between arraignment calendars.

Riddle, 18, was sentenced to state prison last week for voluntary manslaughter in the sex slaying of a San Francisco law librarian near Devil's Slide May 17, 1970. However, Superior Judge W. Howard Hartley granted him a postponement in order that Riddle could marry Miss Carter, 21, of Pacifica, mother of their son, James III, born 15 days ago.

Riddle had agreed to newspaper coverage of the wedding, but Miss Carter was reluctant. So the judge went ahead with the single-ring, two-minute ceremony with only Sheriff's Capt. Donald J. Hartnett, Sheriff's Detective Sgt. Martin Gunderson and Sheriff's Deputy Barbara Schrier as witnesses.

In sentencing Riddle, Judge Hartley recommended that he be committed to the medical facility at Vacaville for prolonged and intensive medical and psychological treatment.

$4,000 Fire

A fire caused an estimated $4,000 damage to an apartment at 225 San Benito Avenue, San Bruno, June 2.

Firemen said the blaze started in a closet near the kitchen.

Mr. and Mrs. Dennis A. Pasquet were not home when a neighbor, Mrs. Barbara Maskins of 221 San Benito discovered the fire at 12:45 p.m.

Tourist Bureau to Seek Funds From All Cities

In the first move to separate the tourist and convention activity from the San Mateo County Fair and Convention Association where it now rests, a county appointed steering committee has agreed to seek budget commitments from all county cities now collecting hotel and motel room taxes. Cities concerned will be asked to contribute 12 per cent of the taxes collected starting with an advance predicated on the 1970-'71 fiscal year.

The special budget committee appointed to seek funds was one of four committees appointed during sessions in the Hyatt House, Burlingame, of the full county steering committee headed by William Zappettini Jr., chairman of the County Fair and Convention Association existing Convention and Visitors Bureau. The steering committee is comprised of: Hugh Wayne, San Mateo councilman; Joseph D. Geller, currently county Convention Committee special events chairman; Mayor James O'Connor, Millbrae; Joseph Greenbach Jr., owner Villa Hotel; Mayor William A. Borba, South San Francisco; Gale F. Dreisbach, city manager of South San Francisco; Mayor Nick Gust, Pacifica; Mayor Irving Amstrup, Burlingame; Councilwoman Mary W. Henderson, Redwood City; and Andy Castle, executive secretary, San Mateo County Restaurant and Hotel Owners' Association.

Appointed to the budget committee were: O'Connor, chairman; Gust, Borba, and Wayne.

Appointed to a committee to determine a suitable site for tourist and convention administrative offices were: Amstrup, chairman; Mrs. Henderson, and Bernard J. Lycett, mayor of Daly City, who was not in attendance.

A committee to recommend staffing, tables of organization and other administrative matters will include Greenbach, chairman; Donald Devoto, manager of the Hilton Inn, who was also not present, and Wayne. The remainder of the committee to be named at a later date will be comprised of hotel and restaurant operators from each major San Mateo County city.

Geller, a Millbrae attorney, was appointed to form a committee of city and county people which will investigate and recommend a suitable non-profit corporate structure.

The committee also recommended that at the appropriate time O'Connor, Borba, Gust and Wayne investigate the operation of tourist bureaus in areas similar to San Mateo County.

The steering committee was appointed earlier this month by James V. Fitzgerald, chairman of the county board of supervisors to create a workable county-wide tourist and convention bureau separate from the County Fair Association.

All members of the steering committee are serving on a volunteer basis.

The tourist and convention activities of the San Mateo County Fair and Convention Association is currently funded until September 30 of this year.

The importance of maintaining and intensifying the county-wide tourist and convention activity was stressed by Chairman Zappettini. It was pointed out that unless the cities support the program, they are in grave danger of losing approximately $100,000 county collected hotel-motel room tax money that now goes into the program.

National statistics indicate that the "average" conventioneer spends between $40 to $60 a day for hotel, food, rent-a-car, and other related goods and services. The original tourist dollar turns over many times within the community. "The multiplier effect of these tourist and convention dollars is a tremendously positive economic stimulus to the county," said Zappettini.

Devoto estimates that San Mateo County residents and businesses realize $40 million annually from the three primary sources of hotel and motel guests — conventions, tourists, and frequent travellers.

Noise Complaints Cut

Noise complaints to San Francisco International Airport's Sound Abatement Center were half again as numerous during May, as in April.

During April, the center reports, noise complaints totalled 65. In May, the number of complaints climbed to 98.

Biggest increase was in the number of complaints made by Foster City residents.

Cooper Welch, director of the center, said 13 complaints were received from Foster City residents during April, and 40 complaints were made from that area in May.

There were also 11 complaints about aircraft noise from San Francisco residents in May, Welch said, while there had been none, during April.

He said there was an increase of five in the number of complaints received from South San Francisco residents, to 16 in May.

Decreases were noted in the number of complaints from residents of Millbrae, San Bruno, Burlingame, Hillsborough and San Mateo.

Reasons for the complaints, and suggestions for alleviating annoying noise, will be discussed during the center's meeting Friday morning at San Francisco International Airport.

NORMAN F. SOLARI, a 31-year-old South San Francisco police officer, is that department's first community relations officer. The new post will be full-time and was designed to improve and coordinate police-community relations. Solari has been with the force for six years, three on patrol and three as a motorcycle traffic officer. He and his wife Janet have three children.

Drug Raid

Three persons were arrested and charged with possession of narcotics following a raid on a Daly City home last week.

Arrested in the raid which netted an undisclosed quantity of drugs, including heroin and marijuana, were Lonnie M. Murray, 43; Esther DeSoto, 23, and Stephen D. Rowlings, 18, all of 18 Oceanside Drive.

Masked Gunman Robs D.C. Store

A gunman with a pink stocking masking his face held up the Bart Mart at 555 Knowles Avenue, Daly City, about 9 last night.

Armed with a snub-nosed revolver the suspect, described as between 18-20 years old, 5 feet, 7 inches all, 134 pounds, fled on foot after grabbing some $60 from a cash register.

Group Needs Aide

Mrs. Rudy Enberg of South San Francisco needs a volunteer to assist her with filing and general clerk-secretary chores for the Friends Outside.

Friends Outside is a developing organization dedicated to helping persons to be motivated to help themselves and there is a continually growing need for volunteer workers to do home visiting, work in the clothes closet and pantry, to drive wives and mothers or to donate food, clothing or money to the effort. According to Mrs. Enberg, a number of high school girls are needed and can find a spot in which they can do some very worthwhile work of a type that will give them great personal satisfaction as well as be of immeasurable benefit to the families of men currently in prison.

At the present time plans are being formulated to send as many boys and girls to camp as possible. Last year the Friends Outside were able to send eight youngsters to camp and the volunteershope to do as well, if not better, this summer.

Potential volunteers should contact Mrs. Enberg for more details. She may be reached in the Friends Outside office, 564-2838.

MRS. MONTE HILL and son Dave, Mr. and Mrs. John Madrosen, and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Jones were among the north peninsula residents who sojourned to San Francisco Wednesday evening to attend the Eagle Court of Honor of Greg Lintner, a member of Boy Scouts of America Troop 88, the Achewan Nimat Lodge of the Order of the Arrow and Chapter 1 of the Knights of Dunamis. Greg is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lintner and the brother of James and William.

MRS. EDNA LAUREL CALHAN, president of the Fifty Plus Club of Pacifica will entertain the members of the Pacifica Choraliers in her home on June 23.

The vocal group sang at the recent Senior Forum meeting and were so well received that Mrs. Calhan elected to thank them with a party.

Clinton Steele Sr. is the choraliers' director and the selection performed by the group for the forum meeting was America—Our Heritage, by Helen Steele.

Fifty Plusers will be attending the annual forum picnic on June 24. According to Mrs. Calhan the club will charter a bus and travel to the festivities en masse rather than attempting to organize into private car pools. For more information about space on the bus, contact Mrs. Elizabeth Funderburg, 355-2184.

MRS. JAMES LEDERER hosted a post-picnic fun-fest in her new South San Francisco home this past weekend. Among those localites on hand for the house warming were Bill Boyette, Ann Scott, Colin Macaulay, Frank Markovich, Lynn Guintmeir and Rich Pena.

ART, MUSIC and learning activities will be offered to youngsters between the ages of four and 11 during the annual vacation church school to be held at the Lakeside Presbyterian Church this summer.

According to Mrs. Judy Prescott, director, the school will be in session between June 21 and July 2 on week days from 9 a.m. until noon.

The school will be open to all and a registration fee of $1 per child will be charged.

DC Race Unity Day Plans

Sunday is Race Unity Day, sponsored annually throughout the nation by members of the Baha'i Faith in the United States to focus attention on the brotherhood of man under God.

Theme of this year's observance is "Men Divide — God Unites." This year the U.S. Baha'i Community is active in its support of one of its basic teachings "the equality of men and women" and in support of the United Nations campaign against racial discrimination.

A public meeting, sponsored by the Daly City Baha'i Community, will be held to observe the day at the Lake Merced Clubhouse, 149 Lake Merced Boulevard, at 2:30 p.m. Sunday.

Mrs. Edward Karres is chairman.

The panel speakers will include Mrs. Julita McLeod, principal of Bret Harte Elementery in San Francisco who was chosen as woman of the year by the San Francisco Filipino community, Dion Dubois, assistant principal guidance at Jefferson High School, a representative from the American Indian Center, and Gordon Jackson, a black architect and a Baha'i.

Robert Lewis, chairman of the Baha'i Asembly of Daly City, said:

"This year the United Nations is stressing the need to eliminate racial discrimination. Over 100 years ago, Baha'u'llah, Prophet-Founder of the Baha'i Faith proclaimed the oneness of mankind and made it a cardinal principle of the Baha'i Faith.

"The Baha'i Faith works to promote human rights and eliminate race discrimination in a number of ways. Baha'is strive to evaluate human beings without respect to race, class, nationality or creed."

Using a pie crust mix flavored with Sloppy Joe seasoning mix and tomato soup to form the crust and crumb topping. The ground beef filling is flavored with more seasoning mix, cheese and tomato soup. And as an added attraction, it's quick and easy to make. It's ready to serve in less than an hour.

1 package (1½ oz.) Sloppy Joe seasoning mix
1¼ cups (10 and ¾ oz. can) condensed tomato soup
1 pound lean ground beef
1 cup (4 Oz. Pkg.) shredded Cheddar or American cheese
6 stuffed olives, sliced

FILLING

Reserved Sloppy Joe seasoning
Reserved tomato soup
3 eggs

TOPPING

Reserved three-fourths cup pie crust mix
½ cup (half 4 oz. pkg.) shredded cheese

In large fry pan, brown the one pound ground meat, drain. Season to taste. Place meat in unbaked pie shell. Sprinkle with one cup shredded cheese.

FILLING

In medium mixing bowl, combine reserved seasoning mix, reserved soup and three eggs; beat until well blended. Pour over meat and cheese.

Topping:

Combine reserved three-fourths cup pie crust mixture and the half cup cheese; mix lightly and sprinkle over filling.

Garnish with the six sliced stuffed olives.

Bake at 425-degrees for 10 minutes. Reduce oven to 350-degrees and continue baking for 20 to 25 minutes until light golden brown. Wait 10 minutes to serve. Serve hot. Serves 6.

THIS RECIPE came in a package of flour. The picture was so attractive and the description so appealing I couldn't resist trying it. It was developed in the Pillsbury Test Kitchens, and here is what they say about it.

"Here's a magic recipe . . . as the cake bakes, the strawberries sink, and the marshmallows rise and glaze the top."

STRAWBERRY SHORTCUT CAKE

1 cup miniature marshmallows
2 cups (two 10 oz. pkgs.) frozen, sliced strawberries in syrup, completely thawed
1 package (3 oz.) strawberry flavored gelatin
2¼ cups All-Purpose Flour
1½ cups sugar
½ cup solid shortening
3 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
3 eggs

OVEN 350-degrees, 13x9-inch cake

Generously grease bottom only of a 13x9-inch baking pan; sprinkle the cup marshmallows evenly over bottom of pan.

Thoroughly combine the two completely thawed packages strawberries and syrup with the one package dry gelatin; set aside.

In large mixer bowl combine the two and one-fourth cups flour, one and one-half cups sugar, one-half cup shortening, three teaspoons baking powder, half teaspoon salt, one cup milk, one teaspoon vanilla and three eggs. Blend at low speed until moistened; beat 3 minutes at medium speed, scraping sides of bowl occasionally.

Pour batter evenly over marshmallows in prepared pan. Spoon strawberry mixture evenly over batter.

Bake a 350-degree oven for 45 to 50 minutes until golden brown and toothpick inserted in center comes out clean.

Serve warm or cold with ice cream or whipped cream.

Terra Nova Topics

By Rockie Montenegro

The end of the year is here at last, and students are recuperating from semester finals and anticipating three months of summer fun. This last week will be a climax of their four years of high school, for the seniors.

They will practice graduation today, and tomorrow they will "graduate" in front of a student assembly. They will wear midi-length graduation gowns. The senior breakfast will be Friday at the Lyon's Restaurant in Millbrae.

The actual commencement ceremonies will be Friday night. Valedictorians of the class of '71 will be Mark Champneys and Don Winterhalter. Salutatorian is Sulvia Garcia, and class speaker is Mike Getas.

MOST OF THE CLASSES have finished for the year. Yearbooks are being circulated and signed by nostalgic classmen

TERRA NOVA will host foreign exchange student, Camille Broye of Switzerland, next year. Camille is an AFS student, and will be spending the year with the Bernard Hyman family at 836 Standish Road, Pacifica. He will be spending his senior year at TN. He is to be the first foreign student to attend Terra Nova classes for the whole school year through the AFS program. Camille is scheduled to arrive in Pacifica during the first week of August.

The Jeff Scene

By SUE McALLISTER

Tomorrow night the Class of 1971, consisting of about 250 seniors, will enter the gym for the last time as Jeff students.

Three students will represent the class with speeches. Jocelyn Smith is to be class speaker. Valedictorian Doug Harrison and Salutatorian Joan Zuckerman will make shorter presentations.

As the band presents its musical number, perhaps it will be a time to reflect on some of the accomplishments of the second class of the new decade.

The class members came in the Fall of 1967, knowing that half of them would be transferred to the new Serramonte in their Sophomore year.

The Principal then was Dr. Ernest Ribera and Emmett Tierney was the advisor.

With a new Principal, Ed Ceraghino in the Fall of '68 and the class split, they prepared to pull themselves together, preparing for senior activities.

In the Fall of '69, a new man took over as Principal, Dr. Bob Bush and the Class of '71 competed with other classes for pride in the school, participating in the first Junior-Senior Ball.

Then in the fall of '70 they were on top — the "seniors."

THE ANNUAL awards assembly will be held in the gym on the seniors' last day at Jeff. The Awards Assembly is mostly for the seniors' benefit, but students from other classes are also honored and the new Executive Board and pep staff are introduced Carol Badran was chosen Head Pep Girl, Cathy Alonso Head Cheerleader, and Cynthia Themoleas Head JV Cheerleader.

ONE OF JEFF'S MOST popular families is celebrating with the victory of Al Unser's at the Indianapolis 500. The Tabucchi family — Charles, Mark, Chris, and Teresa now a junior in Indianapolis, and Ann in elementary school — are proud of their father, who is in charge of the complicated engine on the Johnny Lightning Special. Tabucchi has worked with Indi cars for many years and has helped previous winners.

RICHARD LEE, a 1970 graduate of Jeff, has been awarded a scholarship to the University of California, Berkeley, beginning next fall.

Richard is presently at Skyline and has worked in the Teacher Leadership Development Program at Jeff this year (he was the Science and Mathematics plaque winner last year).

DOUG HARRISON, a graduating senior, has been accepted to the Air Force Academy in Colorado Springs, Colorado.

Doug is class valedictorian, Life Member of CSF, and science and mathematics Bank of America plaque winner. His appointment came through the help of Congressman Paul (Pete) McCloskey.

Salvemini is associated with the Levi-Strauss Company in San Francisco.

Young Salvemini attended Our Lady of Mercy school from the first through eighth grades.

He received the WCAL's Most Valuable Player award and was also All-League WCAL All Star for those three years. This last year he became a High School Soccer All-American.

Lennie was a candidate at the U.S. Olympic camp at San Jose State during his first two years in high school and became a finalist at the U.S. Olympic Trials at St. Louis, Missouri the following year.

Lennie was also junior class treasurer, student body recording secretary, a member of the Student Council, th Block Club, Lifetime Members of C.S.F., and received the Boy of the Year Award from the San Francisco Exchange Club this year.

He has been awarded scholarships from Stanford University, University of California at Berkeley, University of San Francisco. U.S. Air Force Academy in Denver and a California State scholarship.

AND THE STRIKE GOES ON — While Colma's cemeteries are closed to the majority of persons (in certain cases remains are allowed to be buried) the strike does not affect Golden Gate National Cemetery in San Bruno, Skylawn near San Mateo and the Greek and Serbian cemeteries in Colma. Inurnment is also on schedule using an East Bay facility, Our Sources in the Underground tell us.

SPEAKING OF GOLDEN GATE National Park . . . Motorists now have an unobstructed view of the grounds, covered with white crosses. These are the men who made the ultimate sacrifice. The markers bear only their name, rank, branch of service and serial number — not what they did . . . or why.

THE GUADALUPE CLINIC matter in Daly City is fast becoming a political football, for our money. There are undoubtedly some persons attending the meetings who have the community's poor at heart, but if the last board of directors' session this columnist attended is any indication of things to come regarding establishment of this clinic in the North County, it is headed for disaster.

Until quiet-spoken Sanford Treguboff offered some positive action and thoughts on the subject, the board had taken "sides" and accusations were flying wildly about. The room was becoming overheated with rhetoric and a small group of militant students from a South County college started adding their nonsense to the pattern.

Perhaps this is the way to negotiate nowadays? Doubtful.

SAN BRUNO'S former Chamber of Commerce office on San Mateo Avenue is now a bookstore. Not just ANY bookstore, mind you. It sells those unspeakable magazines and reading matter complete with unspeakable photos. And San Bruno also has card rooms. Does this mean San Bruno is liberal minded? Could be! Daly City is one of the last outposts for conservative thinking on such subjects, it appears. All D.C. has is a small part of the Outer Limits, a smutbar on Geneva that features LIVE stage shows.

RUMORS GALORE — Doelger Corporation may soon be out of the shopping center business altogether, if our rumor factory is producing the right information. The last of a long line of commercial holdings — Fairmont in Pacifica — is just about sold, or perhaps has been by the time this gets into print. Focus of the huge corporation will next focus on apartments around San Francisco Golf Course.

MILLBRAE-SAN BRUNO KIWANIS, sponsors of that carnival at Tanforan Park, are being criticized along with the City of San Bruno by the Jaycees for allowing unhealthy conditions to exist at the show site. The Jaycees have also slapped at the Humane Society for not taking fast action on "freeing" a tatooed dalmatian dog kept in a too small cage for public display. Can this be the first move in disputes between various civic groups in the county? Lions against church groups; Rotarians encircling Optimists, etc. Oh, where will it end? With business at its lowest in years, the Jaycees devote their energies to taking swipes at a carnival. (Tatooed dog?)

SENATOR ARLEN GREGORIO is alive and well and was seen only last Sunday at a photo exhibit in Pacifica sponsored by the St. Peter's Women's Guild. The exhibit featured outstanding photos of wilderness areas taken by Father Robert Duryea, former pastor of the parish.

It's good to hear from our elected officials from time to time. Just the other day — at the first regular monthly meeting of the Baccalla Club in D.C. — Supervisor Bob St. Clair dropped by to break bread, as did D.C. Councilman McRobert Stewart.

The latter is repeatedly referred to as "Bob" Stewart by other county politicos. Don't ask why. Most folks call him "Mac."

ONE READER has taken us to task for "misinforming" the public on the appearances of Senator Gregorio in the North County, noting the Bobby Kennedy lookalike has made at least eight visits since being in office. Amazing. Not bad for ONLY six months. In April and May he spent one whole day in the North County for each month mentioned.

REMEMBER THE REV. HOWARD BRYANT? After two years of study, work and more study, he's graduating Saturday at 10 a.m. with a Master of Divinity from the First Presbyterian Church in San Anselmo. The Rev. Bryant was the former executive director of the D.C. Information and Referral Center.

GUESS WHO WON low gross at the D.C.-Colma annual golf tournament at Lake Merced? Wrong! It was Peter J. Markovich. So what, you ask? Well, friends, it just so happens that Ol' Pete is still recovering from a heart attack. He also happens to be the manager of the chamber (fix, fix) and weathered the rigors of some of Daly City's finest weather — heavy fog. He carded a 73.

AT THE SUPPER following the tournament, attended by about 9,000 golfers (wouldja believe 170?), past president of Lake Merced, Charles Greenstone, said the chamber was the very first tournament the country club would put on its books for the coming year. A nice vote of confidence in the conduct of chamber members and guests.

ONE DUFFER (who shall remain anonymous 'cause I forgot his name) ended up with a gross 147. Using some mind-boggling process the gentleman was given a net score of 4, that's what I said FOUR. Merced Pro Woody Wright, seated next to this humble servant of Mankind, leaned over and confided, "Good thing I gave him a few golf lessons."

EDWARD KING JR. is the assistant vice president at the First National Bank of D.C.'s Skyline Branch. . . . That great male chauvinist, Hugh Hefner, will be on hand next week to open the new VIP movie theater at the San Francisco Playboy Club. Webster defines a chauvinist as:

"A person unreasonably devoted to his own . . . sex . . . and contemptuous of . . . the opposite sex . . ." Good Ol' HH. He's led the way for millions of American males to "hate" the opposite sex.

S.S.F. City Gov't Showing a Change

By BOB PETERSON

Things have changed so much in South San Francisco recently that a man stopped at city hall the other day and asked how the mayor form of government was working out.

Admittedly, Mayor William Borba is putting forth an effort to be a strong mayor. But the city manager form of government still prevails.

It might even be called a strong city manager form, a rarity in South San Francisco city government. And city hall critics are waiting for the balloon to burst. They are used to turmoil at city hall.

New city manager Gale Dreisbach appears for the time being able to please the majority of the council. He has been working closely with all councilmen, and giving special guidance to Borba.

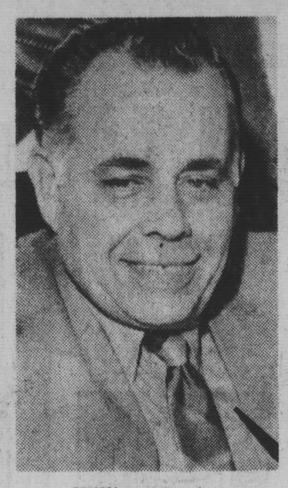
It was Borba who made a concerted effort to return Dreisbach to the city's top administrative post when the city manager resigned after a two-week stay.

When Dreisbach resigned March 15 he gave no specific reason for his decision. When he returned to the post March 22, he said the resignation was necessary to prove a point; that he must be given freedom to operate as a city manager should, serving the entire council and working for the good of the residents.

His resignation and return was frowned upon by some of his professional peers. Since his return, it appears the residents at least are impressed with his actions.

Dreisbach began his reform program by stopping all council study sessions.

His theory is that the items popping up in a study session are unfinished staff matters that ought to be completed. And when they are completed they should be presented to the council at a regular meeting.



William Borba

Dreisbach even issued an edict that department heads, with the exception of the director of public works, don't have to be present at council meetings any more unless an item necessitating their presence requires it.

The new city manager said he likes to take care of the routine business and complaints at his office level, rather than discussing them out during a council meeting.

In lieu of the study sessions, Dreisbach has been keeping the council informed by issuing a weekly status report on various pending items.

He doesn't spend all his time in city hall either. Aside from tours of the city, he has accompanied Councilman Frank Mammini to Washington, D.C., for a conference on jet noise pollution, and has visited Sacramento to plug away for legislation that can be beneficial to South San Francisco.

Dreisbach has made some physical office changes, also. Assistant City Manager Larry Ross, once in isolation downstairs and away from the city manager's office, now occupies the office formerly designated for the city manager.

In the process, Dreisbach made room for his new office by eliminating desks in a room once used as an office for all councilmen.

The mayor's separate office remains the mayor's office. It sits like the top point on a triangle between Ross' and Dreisbach's offices.

The mayor's office remains open to the public on a weekday basis from 3 p.m. on. Borba publicized that he is ready, willing, and able to listen to any and all citizens on any and all issues.

During the council meetings, Borba has moved the meetings along as if he were reading a script. Some say he does, with Dreisbach doing the ghost writing.

Press releases have sprung forth from the mayor's office, most recently pushing the June free weekend rubbish cleanup in the city. He also poses for promotional pictures.

Increase in Air Travel

For the first time since September, there's been an increase in the number of people travelling through San Francisco International Airport during one month.

Airport Public Relations Officer Ben Gaines said travel during April showed a modest increase over the corresponding month, a year ago.

In April, he said, 1,100,804 people used the airport's terminal buildings to board, or debark from, aircraft.

This is an increase of 1.9 per cent over April of 1970, though nowhere near the massive monthly growth rates of two and three years ago.

Airports Director James K. Carr said that air travel — nationally — has shown a slump during the past year.

"San Francisco has suffered a decline in air travel, along with almost all other metropolitan areas," he said, "but the April figures are most encouraging."

Carr said the Bay Area's major airport has experienced less of a decline in passenger use than many other airfields.

The drop in air travel for the first 10 months of the current fiscal year has been 2.5 per cent, compared with 4.5 per cent for New York's Kennedy Airport, and more than 7 per cent at Los Angeles International.

By comparison, all airports were reporting increases as high as 12 to 15 per cent, during 1968 and 1969.

Carr said that even though passenger travel showed a slight increase, air freight volume is down 12.8 per cent, and air express shipments decreased 46.7 per cent, in April.

The amount of U.S. mail shipped by air, in April, increased 11.4 per cent, to a total of 26,855,000 pounds.

He noted that this volume of air-carried mail is roughly 25 times the amount of air express shipments, 1,107,804 pounds in April, and over half the tonnage of air freight, 45,000,784 pounds during the same month.

Carr said that labor jurisdictional problems involving air freight shipments may account for some of the loss in air express and air cargo, but said most of the decline appears to be attributable to the national economic slump.

Politics Is Not Ending Spread of Drugs Here

"Narocitics" makes great politics. Smart politicians have long stood firmly in favor of motherhood and solidly against drugs. And while the politics of motherhood hasn't done anything for mothers, the politics of narcotics had done little to suppress drugs.

The size of the American drug problem is hard to measure. Sophisticates pride themselves in announcing that we have fewer addicts today than there were at the turn of the century. But this accepted wisdom seems seriously shaken by the extent of the use of heroin and the difficulty in finding and identifying addicts in our modern urban society, much less taking some kind of census. Recent revelations concerning use among servicemen, particularly in Vietnam, discloses a sickness the full size of which has yet to be diagnosed. Further, the coming generation is the first "turned on" segment of our society, and its effect on future generations cannot as yet be measured. Long accustomed to reacting with shock to new facts about drugs, finally we may have something to be really shocked about.

Up to now our efforts have proven ineffective against the surging tide of use. In the last ten years in the battle of pushers vs. law enforcers, it is the pushers who have won and new efforts must be exerted. But what should these efforts be?

The natural tendency, of course, is to blame others. And while the pushers of South Vietnam have earned contempt, they are but a small, albeit particularly loathsome, part of the problem. We can get rid of them as we leave Vietnam, and their presence makes the leaving all the easier.

Smuggling is a worldwide business and has long been an object of American attention. Since the Hague Opium Convention of 1912 no less than eight international agreements have sought to control production, manufacture and distribution of opium and coca products. But the apathy of nations with no serious problems and the unwillingness of large producers of opium in the East and Near East to repress lucrative industries have largely defeated our efforts.

Internally, police and federal agents fill the courts, jails and prisons, but the problem inexorably expands. While increased viligance will doubtless help, it seems unlikely that the dilemma will be solved through apprehension and heavier penalties alone.

Compounding the matter is the arrival of snythetics. Soon no long chain of supply will be required, as substitute chemicals that will do the work of heroin are on the way.

Considering all this, one must conclude that enforcement is important but will not be conclusive and cannot alone solve the problem. At least three additional things must be done.

(1) The anomalous role of marijuana must be terminated. Either it is legal or illegal. Today, the moral climate surrounding its use incredibly compounds the drug problem. For one thing, if marijuana is illegal, but so many use it, what, say the simpleminded, can be wrong about other drugs. For another, as long as it is illegal it will be sold by the same men who sell crueler stuff. "Come to the candy counter," says the peddler, and only the wary can identify the sweets that kill.

What is required is a national judgment, based on our best current clinical information, and then definitive action, for or against pot. If later data proves our initial determination to be in error, we can always change policy to meet fact. We have dallied long enough with this permitted but illegal use. Should present scientific knowledge fail of proof against the drug, then we should authorize its controlled sale through ordinary commercial channels. Should empirical evidence demonstrate its danger, we should turn it off — definitively and with the open and full force of law. In either case, decision and action will deprive the pusher of his leading and most accepted sales item.

(2) Methadone should be just a beginning. If such substitutes are practical, we should be able to create new and better ways to deceive and suppress the hunger of the addict. Cut down drugs sold illicitly as the real thing have long provided a self-imposed "cure." Why not use the method of the adulterator under controlled circumstances? And, finally, why not use the full weight of funds and modern scientific method to force an early biological remedy?

(3) It is time we cease being sophisticated about a menace that is ruining the lives of so many. That we have tolerated an articulate "drug culture" in our midst is beyond sense and decency. The only acceptable reaction to this stupidity is revulsion, and only through such revulsion can we gather the will to alter a foolish and dangerous course.

LETTERS

to the editor

Editor, The Post:

I heartily concur with the sentiments you expressed in your editorial concerning the State Senate's vote for the bill confining construction of BART (Thursday, May 13).

In your editorial, calling the passage of the bill by a 27-4 vote a "callow performance," you fail to mention the fact that our own State Senator Arlen Gregorio was one of the four voting against the bill. In fact, Senator Gregorio actively fought the bill in speeches on the floor of the Senate and in committee hearings.

You stated, "The upper house should get bad marks for neglecting its homework." Very true indeed. However, as a paper published and circulated within Senator Gregorio's own district, it is regretful that you fail to mention that Senator Gregorio did his homework.

It is your duty as a newspaper to let your readers know where their legislators stand on issues so vital as BART. In my opinion, you neglected your homework in failing to mention this in your editorial.

BOB POLZONI,
South San Francisco,

EDITOR'S NOTE: Senator Gregorio may have done his homework in casting his own vote, but his efforts in lining up other votes can hardly be called sensational.

Meanwhile, the Giants Are Vanishing...

By SAMUEL C. CHANDLER
Daly City Librarian

"Any fool can destroy a tree," said John Muir, "they cannot run away."

Fortunately, most of the giant sequoias of the Sierra Nevadas are in national parks and forests, beyond the reach of lumberjacks. Yet, Muir's words ring on.

Sam Chandler

Every summer, millions of visitors enter Yosemite, Kings Canyon, and Sequoia National Parks and trample to death the shrubbery around the giant trees and pack down the soil over the shallow-root systems of the sequois. Some botanists feel that this wear and tear is doing irreparable harm to the trees. Root-compaction, however, is one of the least dangers that threaten the giants. Man's management of the forests has not always benefited the trees. In many cases that arise, the rangers are prevented by ill-conceived or outdated laws from taking the steps necessary to care for the trees and insure the life of the seedlings that are developing into trees.

The careless and wanton way that loggers and others have stripped the hillsides around the parks exposes the forests to such things as soil erosion and floods. Indeed, just one flood in 1955 in the Bull Creek Basin toppled 500 huge trees forming a logjam 40 feet high that dammed the creek and sent more water to endanger more trees.

The plight of the giant sequoias is not nearly so great as that of the redwoods of Northern California. According to Robert Silverberg, author of "Vanishing Giants" the drive to protect the redwoods developed at least 50 years after John Muir and his associates moved to save the sequoias.

As a result, many of the finest stands of redwood the world has ever known have been destroyed.

Even though many of the governors of California have recognized the unique value of the redwood parks, they have allowed high-speed freeways to be built where trees that were growing in days of Moses once stood. Californians have stood by while ownership of the redwoods has passed to individuals. Consequently, the lands where a park to save the redwoods should be built are unavailagle.

INFORMATION about the giant trees may be found in Silverberg's "Vanishing Giants." Although written to the understanding of children, it is "brim-full" of information. Each of its eight chapters presents facts — some historical and some botanical about California's unique trees.

It does for the high school and junior high set what Stuart Nixon's "Redwood Empire" and Sierra Club's "The Last Redwoods" does for adults.

The latter is a sumptuous photographic look by Philip Hyde and Francois Leydet. Actually, it is a battle cry. "With every suburbanite who re-panels his living room with redwood, the end of the great trees draws near," Leydet declares. Says he, "Within a few years, the remnants of the virgin forest will be gone." To document his words he produces photos of stumps and jackstraw log piles. To further the case, the author indicts the lumber companies, the highway department and the forestry profession for crimes against the giant trees.

Nixon gets to the nub of the problem facing the giant trees. "Meanwhile, the Redwood Empire continues as a land of paradoxes: lumbermen cutting trees to save forests, wilderness-lovers fencing off public woods and demanding birth control, engineers bulldozing hillsides to bring people closer to beauty, governments competing for the right to administer a park."

Meanwhile the giants are vanishing.

Block 'W' Honors Athletes

Westmoor's Block "W" honored spring athletes and their fathers recently.

Two outstanding seniors—Dave Riley and Jeff Orlich—were selected as best all-around athletes in the senior class. Both are three-letter men. Dave excelled in football, basketball and baseball and Jeff in football, basketball and track.

Dave has received many honors during his high school years, including first team All-League in all three sports, first team slots in All-County, All-West Bay Area and All-Bay Area. He also represented Westmoor in this season's All-Star baseball game.

Jeff received first team honors in football and second team status in basketball. He was also selected as one of 22 gridiron stars from California to play in the Hula Bowl on July 30.

Besides Dave and Jeff, Irving Rowell, Randy Fitzgerald, Bob Bossetti, Rich Cardera, Mike Bilick, Keith Tatum, Jeff Kaus, and Brian D'Arcy all received Westmoor's senior athlete awards. These are awarded to all seniors who have gained six points in their athletic career at Westmoor. One point is awarded for block earners in each varsity sport and three-quarters of a point is allowed for each junior varsity and frosh-soph sport.

Most Valuable Players were also announced for the spring sports. Honored for his contributions in varsity track was Domingo Arnaldo. Both Darell Kettner and Nick LeBlanc were awarded trophies for their outstanding achievement on the NPL championship frosh-soph track team.

Top tennis player was announced as Pat Cotter. Awarded trophies for their contributions to the NPL champion golf team were Ray Pellegrini and Kelly O'Neil.

Rich Cardera was awarded MVP status for varsity baseball and Bob Paine and Chuch Colondrez shared honors for frosh-soph baseball.

Athletic scholarships have been received by Quanstrom, Riley, Orlich, and Pellegrini.

Riley and Orlich were awarded the scholarships for their multi-talents. Dave excelled in football, basketball, and baseball, making all N.P.L. in all three sports, and also being placed on the all-Bay Area team in football as a defensive back as he established a league.

Orlich, starring in football as defensive and tight end, in basketball, as a rebounder and in track as a sprinter, made second team all league in football and basketball, and won third in the NPL Track finals in 100.

He will attend to U.C. Berkeley on an athletic grant. He has also been selected to play football in the high school Alohoa Senior Football Classic on July 30 in Hawaii.

Golf was the sport which got Ray Pelligrini a grant from San Jose State. Ray, along with Kelly O'Neil, was named the most valuable player on the Ram squad. He won the NPL finals with a two-round score of 143.

The last of the four is basketball star Brad Quanstrom, who with his amazing ability to shoot a basketball received offers from B.Y.U., Seattle University, Portland University, Stanford, Santa Clara, and U.S.F. He chose U.S.F.

Making the N.P.L. all-league team by unanimous vote, along with getting M.V.P. of the league, and making the All County, all Bay Area, and on some polls the all Northern Cal team helped Brad to receive so many offers

New Ballfield in Pacifica

DEDICATION — The new ball field on the Terra Nova High School campus in Pacifica Saturday was dedicated to the late James Cooper, who was the first chairman of the Pacifica Park, Beach and Recreation Department. Cooper was on the Jefferson Union High School Board of Trustees when he died this year. Young Matthew Cooper (below) hurled the first ball to Miss Pacifica Debbie Lawler to open the Youth League baseball season on the new diamond. James Cooper, Jr. watches. Above, Mrs. Lydia Cooper, widow of the late trustee, and her son, James, Jr., and grandson, Matthew Cooper, posed with new ballfield in background. "As the first chairman of the Park, Beach and Recreation Commission, Mr. Cooper took the leadership in making possible the widespread public use of White Field, which this field is now replacing for the Youth League and for softball as a community baseball field," said Mrs. Grace McCarthy, Pacifica's mayor. Watching TN Go Down

A couple of weeks ago Al Figoni stood pensively on the left field bank of the Terra Nova baseball field on the last day of the high school baseball season watching his former team drop a 7-4 decision to sixth-place Westmoor, and, concurrently, a chance for its third straight NPL title. (South City, who beat Oceana that day to finish 10-4, as against TN's 9-5 record, won the title).

It is doubtful if Tiger coach Bud Bresnahan felt more badly about the loss than Figone. Two straight NPL Terra Nova championships under Figone's aegis had vaulted the former Jefferson High athlete into the college ranks, many of the boys who had helped him take that last title were still at Terra Nova, and Bresnahan had been one of Figone's students in 1962, the year Al arrived at Terra Nova, and the year Bresnahan graduated.

And Bresnahan had been Figone's championship winning frosh-soph coach the year before. Figone had called Bresnahan three times in less than a 24 hour period to wish him good luck, and reassure him. But it had all been to no avail, and Figone wasn't above adjourning to a local tavern, after it was over, to attempt to dull the slashes across his sentiment.

Friends reassured Figone that, at least, he had his own personal success at San Francisco State College to fall back on. In his first year at the helm of the Gators, he had guided them to their first Far Western Conference championship in eight years. It was little consolation, because what only Figone and a few of the S. F. State inner-sanctum knew, was that his team might be about to be stripped of its title.

A few days later, Figone's worst fears were confirmed. The league had ruled against the Gators. They had to forfeit nine games, seven of which they had won, and relinquish the title to Hayward State and Sacramento State. Joe Victory, an outfielder, had failed to report that he had played baseball for Contra Costa College in 1962, and was thus ineligible under the college five-year rule.

THE GATORS, who had finished — on the field — with a 13-5 conference record, 20-23 overall, were reduced to 6-12, 13-30, and had a bright season turn dismal because of either the poor memory or over-enthusiasm of one baseball player.

Losing a championship on paper is tough to take any time, but this technical loss was especially bitter for the Gators because winning had been very, very hard, harder than it is for most championship teams, because it had been accomplished with a minimum of raw talent. They had lost 11 of their first 12 games, had won six of their 13 league games by one run, two by two runs, and had come back often, once winning a game in which they had been nine runs behind. Two of their losses had been by one run, one by three runs, and they had lost another in extra innings.

And yours truly had done a column about them in early season that, Figone reports, had stung and hurt them. On March 17 we wrote that it looked as if Figone's string of championships was about to end.

We said that he would probably be happy just to finish with a winning league record. We had cited State's apparent lack of interest in the game, the ignorance of fundamentals, the poor conditioning, the ignoring of some of the most basic disciplines. We had talked of Figone's hopes for next year, or the year after, but certainly not this year.

Then things started to happen on wind-swept Maloney Field hard by Lake Merced. Nick Gentile, a thrower, suddenly became a pitcher ("Improved 100 per cent," says Figone), and finished with a 7-2 record, 6-0 in league play. "And he pitched all the must-win games," reminds Figone. Bruce Lee, a senior hurler, suddenly became a team leader, and as frosting on the cake, the kid who had looked lousy on the sidelines turned out to be a helluva breaking ball pitcher with pin-point accuracy, and finished 7-6 as the team's workhorse with the staff's best ERA.

PAT DAY, who last year, in Figone's own words, "was a butcher at third base," became perhaps the Gators' most improved player, fielding adequately and leading the team in hitting. (.326 in all games, .349 in

Bruno's Bommarito State 220 Dash Champ

By RON REID

In the shining history of the California State High School Track and Field Championships, there have been the predictable victories and the upsets that mutually fathered joy and despair.

But for unbelieveable, heart-stopping drama — the kind that raises goose flesh and constricts the throat — few of them can rival the superb triumph authored by the finest sprinter this county has yet produced.

The youngster is Chuck Bommarito, a tall, rangy human bullet from Crestmoor High School who rebounded from the backhand of Fate Saturday to win the 220-yard dash in the Fifty-third renewal of the State showdown at UCLA.

Bommarito's method of flying to the tape is not a simple matter of running fast, wire-to-wire. Lesser mortals will lead before the Bomber, charged up on fear, courage and adrenalin, unleashes an explosive "passing gear" that kills off his rivals in the stretch.

So it was Saturday, in what may have been the most dramatic State Meet of all time.

Forced to run his 100-yard dash final twice (an unprecedented State Meet decision generated by the gun-jumping tactics of Hamilton's George Reddick), Bommarito wearily went to the blocks for his furlong final.

Running out of the fifth lane, Bommarito got a fair start but suffered his usual lethargy through the first 50 yards. Coming off the turn, he was sixth in a tightly bunched pack when the magnificent happened again.

That's when the San Bruno whiz kid turned on the "afterburners" and started to eat up ground on the fastest runners in the State's prep ranks. One by one they fell back under Bommarito's inexorable acceleration until one foe was left with 12 yards to go — and that was too much race for the lead to sustain.

Blistering by his last adversary, Bommarito broke the tape in a wind-aided 21.2 for an implausible victory that made the 6-1, 180-pound Falcon this county's fifth-ever State Meet Champion, and first in a track event since 1959.

The crowd, 12,000 strong and stunned momentarily into awe, loved it. Understandably, so did Crestmoor Coach Ron Etherton, for whom the victory was just reward for his astute work at keeping pressure off his big sprinter.

"Wasn't that something?", Etherton said. "I don't think I've ever seen anyone anywhere make up ground in a sprint field that great. I think he does it out of fear. When he runs behind, he's relaxed and lose. If he has to lead a race, he tightens up."

Great as the victory was, Bommarito's 220 gold medal should have been preceded by the same sort of prize from the 100, a race that will be remembered with some bitterness, both by Bommarito and his coach, among others.

That ill-run event, which ultimately cost El Cerrito the team title, began when Reddick burst out of the blocks so obviously ahead of the gun that the crowd booed the outcome for 10 minutes. Recall starter Ernie Jensen, who should be relegated to Little League umpiring, failed to bring the runners back and hostility ruled when Reddick won a stride ahead of Bommarito, saving perhaps a yard out of the 35-foot margin he held 15 15 yards out of the blocks.

Chuck Bommarito

Then came an announcement from meet referee Ernst Hartmann, who had heard protests from five different coaches as soon as the 100 was run. The 100 would be run again, he decided, "based on an unfair start by one of the runners" (Reddick).

So about 15 minutes later, they came back for 100 No. 2 and it began with Reddick getting called for a false start, which, if the first race was nullified for such infraction, should have disqualified him. Hartmann, however, ruled that Reddick hadn't been charged with a false start in the first race and the second century ended much the same as the first, with Reddick holding off Bommarito by a yard for his eventual victory.

It wasn't all the same, however. El Cerrito's Sammy Burns had placed third in the first race while George Thomas, another Hamilton runner, took fifth. In the re-run, Burns went unplaced while Thomas moved up to fourth for another point that gave the Yankees their team title.

"Those two 100's really tired me out," Bommarito said. "The first one was bad enough and the guy in the lane next to me (Reddick again) kept mouthing off. But that second 100 really killed me."

Bommarito was that tired when his State Meet chores had ended that he turned down an invitation to the Golden West Invitational, a Sacramento meet that draws the best of the nation's prep blue chip athletes.

"It feels good to have won," Bommarito said. "I really wanted it and now I just want to relax."

As for his style of running, the of Terry Albritton, a teammate, took the shot put title at 67-2 to break John Hubbell's six-year-old record. Albritton, a junior, tossed 65-5.

San Bruno bomber said, "My start is okay but I lose on my acceleration through the first 30 yards. I guess it just takes me a while to get up to speed, but I've been improving more and more."

Bommarito, who improved one place each over his 100 and 220 performances in the 1970 State Meet, single-handedly scored 10 points this year to give Crestmoor a tie for third place. That's also a San Mateo County first.

It would seem that Chuck has also given solid evidence that he may be a collegiate-caliber sprinter. It has been the assumption of most track followers that his start is too big a flaw to overcome against PAC-8 competition, which he'll face next year at Cal. That opinion, in light of Saturday's performances, may be due for a reassessment now.

As for the controversial 100, Reddick said, "I thought it was unfair that they re-ran it, after letting the race go. If they wanted to recall it, they should have done it right then. I had to win the re-run. I felt they were trying to nail me to the cross."

Etherton hardly agreed. "I can't understand how they can permit a guy to get away with what amounts to two false starts," he said. "They weren't two separate races, but the same one."

The team title, incidentally, is still subject to a film study that won't be known until tomorrow. The outcome of the 180-yard low hurdles, in which Bakersfield's McKinley Mosley beat Lompoc's Charles Jackson (ostensibly) could move Lompoc into a tie with a different placing.

San Mateo County's other entrants, both of whom hailed from Carlmont, were swept aside by torrid competition which produced five new meet records.

Paul Dempster, a junior who has next year to make amends, went out of the pole vault competition at 14 feet. Hans Templeman, his teammate, ran tenth in the two-mile run with a 9:16.0 clocking.

That race set one of the new CIF standards as San Diego Claremont's Dale Fleet ran to an 8:53.8 triumph ahead of Upland's Gordon Innes, who set an all-time mark for juniors at 8:54.4.

Other records fell in the relays, shot put and high jump, in which Glendale's Dwight Stones established a new national federation mark of seven feet, 1½ inches.

El Cerrito toured the 440 relay in 41.1 to wipe out the 41.2 record Hamilton set in Friday's trials while Castlemont ended the day with a 3:13.2 stunner in the mile relay.

Bommarito's Effort in the Trials

Chuck Bommarito of Crestmoor emerged superbly in the qualifying trials of the fifty-third annual California State High School Track and Field Championships Friday at UCLA. A confident winner of his heat in the 100-yard dash, he was also a runner-up in his 220 trial, where a minor mistake bodes well for today's final.

The San Bruno whiz kid, who overhauls his rivals with a Silky Sullivan finish, unleashed his customary last ditch burst of speed in both trials to make up for slow early foot.

In the 100, the 6-1, 180-pound senior came out of the pack at the 60-yard mark and broke the tape in a wind-aided 9.7, which equalled the best qualifying mark of the day.

"The hundred felt good," Bommarito said. "I knew I was going to win it as soon as I came out of the blocks because I had a good start."

The 220, however, was a different story.

Bommarito, whose size made his pole position a penalty rather than a blessing, considering the tight turn he had to negotiate, went out on the pace a little too cautiously and shifted into his "afterburner" speed a trifle too late for victory.

"I had talked to El Cerrito's Sammy Burns about the guy running in the lane next to me (Vince Brown of Pittsburg) and he told me that Brown went out slow," Bommarito said. "So I tried to pace him and that was really a stupid mistake. I started moving too late."

As it was, Chuck started his jet acceleration tactics in the last 40 yards of the furlong, in which he passed no less than six other runners before finishing second to Compton's George Pepars at the tape. Both were clocked in 21.3, also wind-aided.

"I'm glad he didn't win his 220 heat," said Crestmoor Coach Ron Etherton. "That way he'll get a lane further out from the pole for tomorrow's final."

As for those finals, Bommarito was optimistic, in keeping with the fact that he is running in the state meet for the third time

"I really feel good," he said. "If I get a good night's sleep, I think I could do it. I've got as good a chance as anyone."

league play) and in RBI's, with 30 in the 43 game schedule. Shortstop Rich Washington hit .302, was second in RBI's, second in stolen bases. Center Fielder Ben Robinson was another team leader and looked like the best pro prospect on the roster, hitting .300, leading the team in most extra base hits, runs scored, stolen bases, tieing Day for most total bases, and finishing only one behind Washington in the RBI column.

Catcher Jerry Burke displayed a rifle arm and hit .292. Outfielder Bob Brady, a late-starter, finished up hitting .346. And then there was Figone's lone assistant, Ed Pittson, a Lincoln High, S. F. State graduate student who put in all of his time on a voluntary basis and was instrumental, says Figone, in shoring up the Gator infield.

Figone, too, had done his part. A coach is allowed a 25 man roster in the FWC, but Figone finished with only 16 men. "I had to prune," says Figone. "There were too many guys on the team with poor attitudes, too many cliques.

We didn't have any spirit. But we ended up with 16 unified baseball players, all of whom contributed to what we call — and I admit this is corny, but it really worked — 'Gator tenacity.'

That will be our rallying call from now on. You can be born with talent, but you have to learn tenacity, and that's we did better than anyone else in this league this year. Hang in there."

Figone claims that the loss of the championship on paper will only enhance his team's chances of repeating next year. "Those kids want more than ever to prove themselves, to prove it wasn't a fluke. We played good ball, we won the championship on the field, and they can't take that away from us. As far as we're concerned, we are the champs, and we think that every team who played us realizes that."

And there won't be much chance for next season's Gators to forget what happened this year, because only Day and Lee are lost to graduation; and Victory, of course, is lost. The rest are returning, and, says Figone, a bumper crop of recruits is entering. Some of this year's champions may not even make next year's squad, claims Figone.

"We expect to dominate the league from here on in," says Figone, and he says it like a man who lost his title on a technicality, and it is hard not to believe him.

Meanwhile, back at Terra Nova, Bresnahan's future isn't bleak, either. The only alumni ever to return to TN as a teacher has seven returning starters for '72, plus his pick of this year's frosh-soph team which defeated Westmoor in the last game of the season, in at least a small measure of revenge, to gain a co-title with the Rams.

This column was originally designed a few weeks back, when State had already clinched the title by winning on the field and we knew the Tigers would bring it down to the wire, to honor two winners. We see no reason why this column isn't still valid.

Shell, Park Pacifica in League Lead

Much of the Bobby Sox action in Pacifica was cancelled because of the bad weather.

The undefeated Felix Seavue came up against Moonraker who were determined to get the victory. It was an exciting and excellently played game by both teams and kept everybody's interest throughout the game.

Moonraker pitched Vicki Harris and Julie Fisacare. In the second inning, Julie got a triple and batted in three runs, while Danya Diaz got a double in the fourth. Going into the fifth inning things really got exciting as the score was 19-15 in Moonraker's favor.

It seems as if Moonraker's girls really got their bats set as Claire Baughman got a triple and three RBI's, Jill Luccherttti got a home run and Vicki Harris got a double. Julie Fisacaro came back in the sixth with a home run, all of this helped Moonraker beat Felix, 24-20.

Only two games were played in the major leagues this week. Farber's Pharmacy lost to E-Z TV, 21-10.

Vicki McWilliams startded it off in the first inning with a home run for E-Z and Cheryl Wynn got one in the second. Lori Souther got her sixth home run of the season.

Park Pacifica was in and out of first place tie with Crespi Shell. E-Z TV girls took Park to drop them into second place with a score of 19-6.

Continuing programs at South San Francisco Municipal Swim Pool include Ladies Fitness, Adult Lunchtime Fitness, Tiny Tot Aquatics, Swim Team, Open Recreation Swimming, Saturday Evening Teen-age Swimming, and Family Night Recreational Swimming on Thursday evening.

The new aquatic programs are lesson orientated. Adult lessons and basic spring board diving are offered. Junior Aquatics, a youth program designed to develop skills such as skin diving, synchronized swimming and lifesaving, will also be offered. Basic canoe classes will be held during the month of August at Oyster Point Marina.

All aquatic registrations will be at South San Francisco Municipal Swim Pool.

REGISTRATION for the first session of the South San Francisco Recreation and Park Department tennis lessons will be taken June 17, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Orange Memorial Park Tennis Complex, at the rear of Tennis Drive.

Sign-ups for both fee and resident only free classes will be taken at that time.

The first session will begin during the week of June 21 and conclude on Friday, July 16.

A second four-week session will follow.

- Both sessions will be nine hours in length over a three-week period followed by an intraclass tournament during the fourth week.

There will be no 8 to 9-year-old tourney.

Fee classes will be limited in size to ten participants per instructor. Free classes for residents will receive all comers to a maximum of 20 participants per instructor. Fees are $3 for children and $4 for adults.

No class will be held July 5.

Participants must furnish their own racket and shoes while the department provides tennis balls.

"WRESTLING WORKOUTS" for South City junior and senior high school boys are offered on Monday evenings from 7 to 9 p.m. at El Camino High School.

El Camino Head Wrestling Coach Mike Heffernan has been supervising a series of free workouts in the mat room and will continue through the summer.

The program, sponsored by the South San Francisco Recreation and Park Department with the cooperation of the South San Francisco School District and El Camino High School, is designed to encourage young athletes to participate in wrestling and learn its skills through practice.

Gym shoes and sweat pants are recommended. No street shoes or jeans can be permitted on the mats. There is no charge for this on-going program.

Boys will wrestle in their own age and weight divisions. Interested youths should report to the El Camino High School Gym entrance promptly at 7 p.m. ready to wrestle.

Free Tennis Program in Daly City

The Youth Tennis Foundation of Northern California and the Daly City Recreation Division are offering a free tennis program for boys and girls between the ages of 10 and 14.

Some racquets and balls will be available, however, students are requested to furnish own equipment. Registration will be prior to the first class of each session.

First two weeks: June 21 - July 2, Monday through Friday, 1-2:30 p.m., Westmoor Park, 123 Edgemont Drive.

Second two weeks: July 12 - July 23, Monday through Friday, 1 - 2:30 p.m., Jefferson High School, 6996 Mission Street.

Third two weeks: July 26 - August 6, Monday through Friday, 1-2:30 p.m., Westlake Park, 149 Lake Merced Boulevard.

MARSHAL BORSTAD won the Most Valuable Girl Swimmer Trophy and Joe Morgan the Most Valuable Boy award at Pacifica's annual all-city swimming meet. The two young Pacificans received the highest number of points in the two-day swimming event. (Starr Photo)

POLICE Patrolman Robert Timko won the San Bruno Employees Golf Tournament with an 86 at the Crystal Springs Golf Course. Dermot Fitzgerald won second with an 87. Frank Villa shot an 89 for third place.

S.S.F. Cyclist Is Injured

Ronald F. Cook of South San Francisco was injured Wednesday when his motorcycle slammed into two cars on California Drive in Burlingame.

Cook, 26, of 36 Randolph Avenue, was admitted to Peninsula hospital with a fracture of the right upper leg, and lesser injuries.

Police said Cook was riding northward on California Drive when his motorcycle crashed into the two cars, which had stopped for traffic.

The first was driven by Walter S. Lloyd, of Danville. The second was operated by Robert O. Hollis, 20, 173 West Thirty-eighth Avenue, San Mateo.

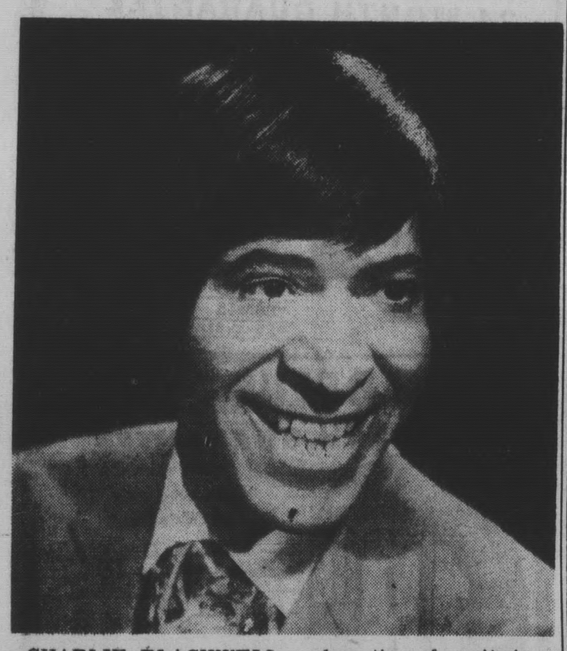
BRIGHT LIGHTS BY LLOYD JOHNSON

Gust Joins Carriage Trade Dinner Club

Nick Gust, Pacifica restaurateur who operates three successful dining establishments, Nick's, The Moonraker and The Papagayo Room, is proud to announce that he is now a member of The Carriage Trade Dinner Club, San Francisco and Peninsula. When planning your next dinner out, take advantage of the excellent food and service afforded at these prestige restaurants picturesquely situated on the shore of the Pacific ocean at Rockaway Beach . . . Not only is the Hyatt Corporation one of the feastest growing lodging chains in the United States, but the corporation is also building hotels in Europe. President Donald N. Pritzker recently announced that construction has started on the Heathrow Hotel at London's Heathrow International Airport. Completion is scheduled for early 1973. . . . A Sabella's at Fisherman's Wharf offers some of the finest banquet facilities anywhere in the Bay Area. The entire second floor of the luxurious restaurant is devoted to this, with seating going as high as 400 persons. For those who like to top off their meals with something unusual, there are Capuccino and Espresso coffee machines.



CHARLIE BLACKWELL, a long-time favorite in the Lake Tahoe area, packs 20 years of show business into an evening's entertainment in the lounge at Villa Hotel. The guitar strumming vocalist, who captures his audience with a style that ranges from soft and sophisticated to hot rock, includes blues, ballads, calypso and country-western in his repertoire. The Charlie Blackwell group, which includes Ward Erwin and Roger Hall, has caught the fancy of all age groups with its unusual combination of instruments — guitar, bass and drums.

Foster's Take-Out Chicken

Exceptionally low prices on take-out chicken is a constant feature at Foster's Original Pancake and Chicken House (located across from Hillsdale) which specializes in golden Farm-Fried Chicken. As low as their regular prices are ($3.95 for a bucket for five), Foster's has recently held several money saving sales, and business has been fantastic. Among the specials of this unique restaurant is the Senior Citizen Dinner for only $1.25, and an incredibly wide selection of pancakes . . . The success of the Lord Fletcher Inn is mainly due to the restaurant's many regular patrons. Two prime examples are Robert "Bob" Spiller, assistant vice president of Sacramento Savings and Loan, and Dr. Wellman, one of many physicians who frequently dine here . . . Father's Day, Sunday, June 20, holds great things in store at Bruno's in the Mission. Dad, from the minute he enters, will be king of all he surveys, with Chef John whipping up lots of menu specials. A fresh, crisp carnation will find its way to Dad's lapel . . . Holding musical fort at The Band Stand, a lively Redwood City bistro featuring live entertainment, Wednesdays through Saturdays, is The Sound Barrier. Another attraction here for "night owls" is the Continental Breakfasts, served Fridays and Saturdays from 2 a.m. to 5 a.m.

Unusual Antiques Displayed

Besides serving food of praiseworth quality, Scotty Campbell's is an award-winning Redwood City restaurant providing diners with interesting surroundings. Theresa Urban and Mary Lou Francis, two vivacious sisters, have gathered an outstanding collection of antiques from throughout the world to display in the lobby, lounge and dining rooms of their dinner house for the examination of their guests . . . A special Turf 'n Surf dinner is one of the current menu attractions at Ansara's in Redwood City. Included are three petite broiled lobster tails and a USDA top sirloin steak. It's served as a complete dinner and includes all the trimmings . . . Adding to the western flavor of Stickney's of San Mateo are several original paintings by leading West Coast artists. You'll also find artifacts from the "Old West" scattered throughout the impressive restaurant . . . Palo Alto's Shirt Tail restaurant, located near Stanford University, provides a variety of appetite enticements. The menu, which includes quality beef, prime rib, lobster, other seafoods and several continental dishes, assures a pleasurable meal.

Entertainment The Nevada Way

If you're interested in fun and entertainment the "Nevada Way," you'll be delighted with the several money-saving packages available at Park Avenue Tours. If you're headed for Lake Tahoe or the Reno area, where the accommodations are at the Ponderosa Hotel, it would be wise to call Park Avenue Tours and let them plan your trip. There are four Bay Area offices to serve you, including one on El Camino Real in San Mateo . . . There's nightly action at Deejay's in Belmont every night of the week. The two bands featured are The Sound Barrier (Monday and Tuesday nights) and Reflections (Wednesdays through Sundays) . . . The Putter, Burlingame Plaza, is a favorite relaxing spot for many of the personnel from nearby Peninsula Hospital. Hardly an evening goes by without finding several attractive nurses on the premises of this popular lounge . . . George Rost, corporate manager of the Sherwin-Williams Paint Co. from Cleveland, hosted a dinner meeting in the luxurious new V.I.P. room of Phil Lehr's Steakery, in downtown San Francisco.

Curly And Bob Cordoni Own Half Moon Bay Inn

Brothers Curly and Bob Cardoni are the new owners of the Half Moon Bay Inn, located at Maine and Mill Streets in downtown Half Moon Bay. You name it — their Inn has it: dining, dancing and live entertainment. Lunch is served daily from 11:30 a.m.; dinners from 6 p.m. The Inn Beats are showcased Friday and Saturday nights, and on Sunday afternoons from 5 p.m. A dinner feature here is prime ribs of beef, which is served only on Friday, Saturday and Sunday . . . Arthur Lyman and his group bring the exotic sounds of the Islands to the Garden Bar of the Miyako Hotel, San Francisco, for a five-week engagement. The Lyman group has more than two dozen record albums to its credit, including three million-sellers: "Yellow Bird,", "Love for Sale," and "Taboo." Expanded public facilities of the Miyako Hotel, located in San Francisco's Japan Center, include a handsome Imperial Ballroom which will accommodate up to 1,000 persons and the Osaka Room for groups up to 200 . . . In design and atmosphere, the Tia Maria in Burlingame brings to the Peninsula a replica of what an elegant Mexican Cantina would be if really located "South of the border." Smiling waitresses, gaily costumed, bring the lunch and dinner menus which offer numerous intriguing versions of enchiladas, tamales, tostadas, tacos, chiles rellenos, and chile con carne. The adjacent lounge offers live entertainment and a large dance floor.

No Parking Problem Here

There is never a parking problem for dinner patrons at Lew Lehr's popular Steak House in San Francisco's Marina District. Ample parking is found in the new neighborhood parking garage around the block from Lehr's, on Pierce Street between Lombard and Chestnut. Low meter rates apply before six p.m., and evenings are free . . . Pizzas in small, medium or large format are available to take out from Romano's Italian restaurant, Enrico Romano's Pacifica restaurant, which is noted throughout the Bay Area for Enrico's liberal placement of ingredients atop the paddies of dough. People come from far and near to try them — especially the Combination which could be the grandfather of all pizzas . . .

South San Francisco police, assisted by a hotel manager, arrested a Richmond woman on suspicion of soliciting for prostitution.

Police Arrest Nude Stroller

Residents in the 400 and 500 block of Jenevein in San Bruno were startled at about 4 p.m. Monday when they witnessed a nude young man walking eastbound on the street.

Police said they placed Ingo Vern Baursachs, 18, on a 72-hour hold at Peninsula Hospital. He reportedly said he had "an irresistible urge" to walk down main street in the nude.

According to police, the young man has a history of mental illness.

Cemeteries Hit by Strike

Cemetery workers went on strike at 10 cemeteries on the Peninsula Thursday.

Pickets were on duty at the cemeteries at 8 a.m. Negotiations for more pay for cemetery workers were at a halt.

Funeral directors say they will continue to hold services but there may be inconvenience on interments.

Cemetery Workers and Greens Attendants Union local 265 called its 235 members out in the third cemetery strike in this county since 1956. The other strike was in 1962. Effected are Holy Cross Catholic, Italian, Greenlawn, Woodlawn, Cypress Lawn, Olivet and four Jewish cemeteries in Colma in north San Mateo County, and Alta Mesa Memorial Park in Los Altos. The four Jewish cemeteries are Hills of Eternity, Eternity Hills, Salem and Home of Peace.

Three other San Mateo County cemeteries, Skylawn west of San Mateo and the Serbian and Greek cemeteries in Colma, aren't affected by the strike because they don't belong to the Associated Cemeteries of San Francisco, the negotiating agency for the cemetery managements.

Cemetery workers now are paid $34.20 a day, regardless of seniority. They are seeking $40 a day, a straight Monday through Friday work week with time and a half pay for weekends, and medical, dental and pension benefit improvements.

Maurice Fitzgerald, union secretary, has said this could be a long strike. The 1956 strike lasted two months.

There have been predictions of some inconvenience to families in case of a long strike, but San Mateo County mortuaries report adequate storage space. Cremations can be arranged for with East Bay mortuaries, it was reported.

Use of Skylawn, one of the busiest cemeteries in the county, will alleviate most problems for many central county mortuaries. A spokesman for Sneider and Sullivan Chapel in San Mateo said today, "We anticipate no problems at all, other than the inconvenience to families in case of a long strike."

One cemetery spokesman said most of the inconvenience would be to families wanting a certain cemetery for sentimental or traditional reasons.

In these and accident victim cases, a "holding embalmimg," or external preservative would be used until the body could be buried, entombed or cremated, according to Don Lind, of White Oaks Chapel in San Carlos.

White Oaks had planned a burial at Hills of Eternity Jewish Cemetery in Colma but now must wait, Lind said. He added that during the 1962 strike the mortuary had 30 bodies in storage before the strike ended and that was with the use of Alta Mesa, which wasn't effected then.

Funerals will continue to be conducted, with only the final disposition of the remains affected, Lind said.

Negotiations between the union and the cemetery association broke off May 21. John Cantwell, the association attorney and chief negotiator, said today no further meetings have been scheduled. He wouldn't speculate on how long the strike might last, but conceded he wouldn't be surprised if it went on for some time.

The union had turned down an association offer of a $6.20 per day increase over a three-year period and submitting of all disputes to binding arbitration.
